PSE Plan to build new transmission lines through Bellvue and neighboring cities

January 16, 2018

My name is Marjorie Ostle. I live in Kirkland, WA, close to Bridle Trails State Park. I oppose the PSE plan to build large high voltage lines through Bellevue and in proximity to where I live. Instead, I support moving away from fosssil fuels and producing power through 100% renewable energy sources. For peak loads, large battery storage should be thoroughly investigated and utilized. We need to respond to climate change by ending our reliance on fossil fuels, now. Building the new transmission lines will only postpone the full use of renewable sources, and further endanger our earth's health.
