We cannot issue you your Common Carrier Permit until we receive that Insurance Filing. However, you can withdraw your application at this time for a full refund, then you can reapply at a point when you are ready to go into business again if you'd like. You also still have a little less than two months until we cancel your application, so if you think you'll be ready to start business by then, you can just keep it open. Keep in mind, if we do cancel your application due to the requirements not being met, you would lose you application fee. We would cancel around October 15, 2014.

hello,

my name is artur voznyuk

I have a courier business and i applied for a common carrier number because i applied for a owner operator job and the common carrier number was required. They couldn't hire me because i was too young. I am currently trying to leave the courier business and start going into the trucking business. I received a letter saying that i am missing an uniform motor carrier certificate. Currently i dropped my insurance to state minimum because i am not working and want to keep expenses low. my insurance agent did not want to send me the certificate because this was an issue. I am trying to find out what options i have. You can email me back or call the number below.

thanks
