Judge Friedlander:

Thank you for the inquiry. Public Counsel has not objection to the joint motion. However, Public Counsel requests that other parties be afforded the right to file cross-answering testimony on November 15 to the Joint CLEC November 1 responsive testimony, should it appear necessary.

Thank you. I appreciate the insight. Should that be the case, the other parties will need to file something indicating their positions.

Your honor,

I will let the parties speak for themselves. However, the moving parties are not aware of any party that objects to the motion.

Thank you.

Thank you for the courtesy copy. It would appear that this joint motion is not unopposed. Without getting into specifics, do any of the non-joining parties (I can think of at least Staff and Public Counsel from my quick read) oppose the joint motion since they have not joined in? I'm asking because the testimony deadline is obviously looming, and if there is no need for a notice of opportunity to respond, i.e., all non-joining parties will be filing letters stating that they do not have any objections, that would speed up an order for the parties.

Certainly, if any of the parties do object, let me know and I will hear your responses accordingly following customary notice.

Thank you.
