Re: Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission v. Avista Corporation d/b/a Avista Utilities, Docket UE-220053, UG-220054, and UE-210854 (Consolidated)

Dear Director Maxwell:

Enclosed for filing in the above-referenced dockets please find the workpapers for Public Counsel's expert witnesses Sebastian Coppola, Robert Earle, and David Garrett. Experts Andrea Crane, Corey Dahl, and Aaron Tam do not have workpapers to file. Due to the size and format of these documents they are filed in electronic format only.

Such workpapers include:

Sebastian Coppola

- SC-WP1 through SC-WP20

Robert Earle

- RLE-WP1

David Garrett

- DJG-WP1 through DJG-WP19

In some cases, workpapers were developed using Avista Corporation (the Company's) exhibits, attachments, and/or models provided during the discovery process. In instances where the attached workpapers rely upon Avista's materials, Public Counsel's witnesses Coppola and Earle modified only portions of each Company provided document that were necessary to quantify any recommended adjustments. Therefore, it may be possible that worksheets contained within these workpapers were not adjusted by Public Counsel's expert witnesses and some information is neither sponsored nor supported. By supplying these workpapers Public Counsel's expert witnesses are not inferring that they agree with all components of every worksheet. These workpapers should be used in conjunction with the text and exhibits in each of the corresponding Response Testimony filed July 29, 2022.

Additionally enclosed, Public Counsel provides indices to easily cross reference workpapers used with each witnesses' testimony. The references listed for each workpaper guides the reviewer to varying exhibits, calculations, recommendations, and/or interpretations that rely on the particular workpaper.

Public Counsel is available to answer any questions about the indices provided or how specific adjustments were calculated.

Sincerely,

/s/
