

09/21/21 14:35

State Of WASH.
UTIL. AND TRANSP.
COMMISSION

Quote of the Week:

“skepticism is the highest of duties; blind faith the one unpardonable sin” – Thomas Huxley

RE: SB5116 CETA

It is notable that the State of Washington willingly and consciously committed this unpardonable sin, by its failure to remain skeptical of its actions by employing "blind faith" to legislate the Clean Energy Transformation Act, for which no evidence exists to show emissions a danger, no evidence to show that the Act necessary or of value. Rather actions taken to legislate and regulate the Clean Energy Transformation Act are and will be detrimental to the citizens of the State.

Missing in this action are reality of the world around, and recognition of the scientific method. Instead the state pays homage to and honors political messaging.

Science and Environmental Policy Project publishes The Week That Was, news of science and the environment - www.sepp.org/the-week-that-was.cfm