Yesterday I went to the public comment forum on the Puget Sound Energy's IRP, and was informed. I was most impressed with the people from Montana whose land and health are in a precarious situation with the fracking and coal strip mining. They are offering us clean wind power and justifying it with economic and consistent stability. Puget Power Energy is not a locally own business although you might be misguided with their name. Canada and Australia, the real owners and money makers, have no problem destroying land and creating health problems in the areas they are mining and fracking; dry ash storage, the health risks associated with chemical emissions, the destruction of aquifers, along with the building of LNG plant in Tacoma without having all the permits that are there to protect the people. Water is sacred why are we so risky with it? Money can not buy clean air, water and land but it is the rational for destroying it. The people who spoke at the UTC public forum were professionals: doctors, lawyers, teachers, engineers, nurses, mothers and many more smart, caring United States citizens. We need to do what is right for the health and longevity of the people. Montana is a fellow state, they want to clean up their land, and Puget Power with the investments they are planning will set us all back environmently and eventually economicly, sticking us with the consequence of fossil fuel, when wind and solar are viable alternatives. Those who participated in the public forum were factual. Fossil fuels pollute and will be costly in the end. Puget Power Energy is a monopoly and I feel hostage to it. And I have invested in Solar power. We need you to protect our future with your decisions. Thank you for your time. Sincerely, Lori McKole
