Subject Re: Price List Notice

Barb,

You raised a very good question and you are not the only one. Here is some clarification.

You will be able to maintain any price lists that you had on file as of June 2006 for another year, this means that you can still make revision filings. We just want to begin the transition by saying that no "new" price lists can be filed. The rulemaking will continue through the summer and into the fall, so I'd recommend keeping the price list on file until the rules are in place.

I'm working on this Web page that contains some answers, it will get prettier as soon as I get the chance, thanks

Thank you for helping me with this! Feel free to touch base anytime, I look forward to working with you on it.

Subject Price List Notice

Tom, we received a notice dated May 2, 2006 regarding implementation of the Senate Bill 6473 regarding price lists. The statement was made in that document that after June 7, 2007, new price lists would not be accepted by the commission. Does this mean that the commission will not accept changes to existing price lists or that they will not accept brand new price lists?

If it means the commission will not accept changes to existing price lists, RCW 80.36.330, Section 6 clearly states that a telecom company may continue to "maintain" on file with the commission.... which would indicate that any maintenance activity associated with an existing price list is allowed until June 30, 2007. Please advise.

Thanks!
