I am a visually impaired person. Legally blind. I rely heavily on public transportation. In this economy with rapidly increasing costs and fuel prices you are going to place further restrictions on services such as the seatac shuttle which I rely on? What about Executive Order EO 10-06? I realize that your defense of this action is probably something like "it's not a new restriction we are just enforcing an old one" or some such. I really do not care. If your bureaucratic nonsense puts my shuttles out of business then on the week-end I must travel over 200 miles by ferry and bus to go the 30 miles from my home to the airport. Many of the "public transit" simply do not operate on week-ends. Of course the businesses that have variable costs must be able to recover those costs. Who do you think they are to spend money they have no way of recovering?
