

04/13/18 11:29

State Of WASH.
UTIL. AND TRANSP.
COMMISSION

-----Original Message-----

From: Plummer David F. [<mailto:pdf3@comcast.net>]
Sent: Thursday, April 12, 2018 8:16 PM
To: Griffith, Kate (UTC) <kate.griffith@utc.wa.gov>
Subject: Re: Opt-Out Provision

Hi Kate!

Thanks for the feedback! I hope the Commission staff will look into AMI (advanced metering infrastructure) for water utilities, as many are converting to this 'real-time' water service technology including our own Bellevue water utility (even though it's not subject to UTC oversight, the 'opt-out' option is an important customer issue).

Cheers,

David Plummer

> On Apr 12, 2018, at 3:49 PM, Griffith, Kate (UTC) <kate.griffith@utc.wa.gov> wrote:

>

> Hi David,

>

> The commission's policy statement does not address water service. Water meters are typically one-way communicating devices. If a regulated water company were to pursue advanced meter technologies, the commission could address customer concerns at that time.

>

> Best,

> Kate

>

> _____

> From: Plummer David F.

> Sent: Tuesday, April 10, 2018 9:18:27 PM (UTC-08:00) Pacific Time (US & Canada)

> To: Media (UTC)

> Subject: Opt-Out Provision

>

> Hi there!

>

> Will the UTC's "opt-out" ruling also apply the installation advanced metering technologies for water service?

>

> RSVP,

>

> David F. Plummer

>

> Bellevue, WA

>