If PSE is truly looking to the future they can only see climate change in it and worsening; that carbon burning is equivalent to shooting ourselves in the foot. Having only 5% of the expansion of their portfolio in renewables while pushing for long-term coal, paired with energy-draining, polluting, land-depleting extraction of fracked gas for energy supplies is looking in the rear-view mirror. Please hold to having them phase out dirty coal from Montana and give the push to more % of renewables. They have made a good start with wind and solar but they need to continue this forward trend with investment $$$. In the long run it will be the most profitable investment for PSE and make lower rates for their customers (including us). Coal will be a bad, unhealthy dream of the past.
