Basic Description:

Avista is not complying with APWA and CGA standards for locates. When we called them out to clarify, Jay Arragon from Avista could not decipher the 30' apart dots. Jay called ELM Avista's contractor who refuse to mark with clarity. This is a continuing problem that we are unable to resolve in the field. Avista has directed me to leave ongoing problems in field but they are still not being resolved. Avista refuses to defiantly with M&L in our employee or public safety. This could be resolved easily if Avista would admit responsibility and change behavior, instead of "blaming their issues on M&L"

Additional Information:

we called Jay Arragon from Avista in the field to help locate, he responded 9/11 and said he was confused as to what was going on. Jay has 30 years experience, and finally figured out that there was a "split" to the adjacent property. He called ELM who refused to complete the locate from the 2 small dots over 35 feet. We can not tell what is going on. From the directional drill foreman Austin "i am tired of having to guess where the gas lines are," Austin, directional drill foreman" 9/11 5:05 pm.

Seriously one locate looked like a spilled blood dot from cutting yourself.... maybe it was but we dont know.
