Subject: Blurb on Railroad community notice requirement

The purpose of this rule is to give a community's governing authorities at least ten days notice when there is a planned action by the railroad that may have significant impact on a community. A significant impact could be an event that would impede traffic flow, disrupting a crossing for track inspection, reconstruction, or maintenance; a planned blocking of a crossing, etc. By the railroad providing advance notice it would allow the community to make arrangements to notify the affected public of the potential disruption.

Is this what you are looking for? Please let me know. Thanks ph
