Re: Docket No. UT-060962; Confidentiality issues

Dear Ms. Washburn:

Commission Staff has conducted an investigation in the above-referenced docket of alleged overcharges by AT&T Communications of the Pacific Northwest, Inc. ("AT&T") on collect calls made by prison inmates. During the course of that investigation, AT&T provided call detail and related information ("Data") to Staff that AT&T designated as confidential pursuant to RCW 80.04.095. Staff aggregated the Data and included the aggregated information in its investigation report, which Staff intends to submit to the Administrative Law Division for a determination of whether sufficient cause exists for the Commission to issue a complaint against AT&T.

AT&T takes the position that even in aggregated form, the Data is confidential. Staff disagrees. Accordingly and in consultation with Judge Rendahl, AT&T and Staff have agreed that if the Commission issues a complaint against AT&T as a result of the show cause review, the aggregated Data that AT&T contends is confidential will be redacted from the Staff report appended to that complaint, and the complaint itself will not include any of that Data. The parties in the complaint proceeding will then have the opportunity to seek a Commission determination of whether the Data should continue to be treated as confidential. If the Commission determines that the Data is not confidential, both the complaint and the investigation report will be amended to include the formerly redacted Data.
