CenturyLink has complied with this condition by establishing a program with its executive complaint handlers whereby they will conduct a root cause analysis to determine the cause of the problem leading to the customer complaint; document the corrective action the company has taken to remedy the underlying problem; and issue a three-month service credit to the affected customer at the applicable rate. Attached is CenturyLink's third quarter report (confidential and redacted version) that provides monthly data regarding the total number of Lifeline complaints received under the program, root cause analyses and corrective actions taken regarding each complaint, and the total number of lifeline credits that were issued during the preceding quarter.

The electronic copy is being provided by email.
