Report on Permanent Disconnection and Removal of Facilities under Schedule 300 and Rule 6

Required by Order 04 in Docket No. UE-130043

November 27, 2013

I. BACKGROUND

On January 11, 2013, PacifiCorp d/b/a Pacific Power & Light Company (PacifiCorp or Company) filed a general rate case, which was docketed as Docket No. UE-130043. The initial filing included proposed revisions to PacifiCorp's Schedule 300, Charges as Defined by the Rules and Regulations, and Rule 6, General Rules and Regulations. Schedule 300 and Rule 6 relate to the costs charged to customers for permanent disconnection, removal of facilities, and reconnection.

Staff of the Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission (Commission), Public Counsel, the Energy Project, and the Columbia Rural Electric Association (Columbia REA) filed testimony in Docket No. UE-130043 on June 21, 2013. Public Counsel, the Energy Project, and Columbia REA objected to the Company's proposed changes to Schedule 300 and Rule 6. Specifically, all three parties questioned the use of estimates of the costs associated with disconnection and reconnection of service, rather than actual cost data, to support the proposed revisions.

In response to the parties' concerns, PacifiCorp filed a motion to withdraw its proposed revisions to Schedule 300 and Rule 6 from Docket No. UE-130043 on July 11, 2013. In the motion, PacifiCorp acknowledged the lack of actual cost data to support its proposed tariff revisions and moved to withdraw the changes to allow the Company to collect data on the actual costs of permanent disconnection, removal of facilities, and reconnection so that it could respond constructively to the parties' concerns.

The Commission granted the Company's motion to withdraw its proposed revisions to Schedule 300 and Rule 6 from Docket No. UE-130043 in Order 04, issued July 29, 2013. The Commission order included:

- A requirement that PacifiCorp file, in a new docket, "a thoroughgoing report detailing its experience applying Schedule 300 and Rule 6 since inception."
- A requirement that PacifiCorp conduct a meeting (on or before September 27, 2013) with Staff, Columbia REA, and any other interested parties from Docket No. UE-130043 to "develop an outline for the required report."
- Instructions that the report:
 - Must be filed by November 29, 2013;
 - Should include data showing the actual costs of each removal "and such other data as PacifiCorp, Staff, Columbia REA, and other interested persons identify as being pertinent to future consideration of the rates, terms, and conditions of service provided under Schedule 300 and Rule 6; and
 - Must address "each of the points raised by Columbia REA through its recommendations" discussed in paragraph 7 of the order.

PacifiCorp is filing this "Report on Permanent Disconnection and Removal of Facilities under Schedule 300 and Rule 6" in compliance with Order 04. As required by the order, PacifiCorp met with representatives from Commission Staff, Columbia REA, Public Counsel, and Boise White Paper, LLC (Parties) on September 27, 2013, to develop an outline for this report and identify the data that should be included. PacifiCorp also hosted a follow-up conference call with the Parties on November 13, 2013, to further discuss this report.

PacifiCorp and the Parties discussed the purpose of the new docket and scope of the report. Due to the complexity and uniqueness of the issues, PacifiCorp and the Parties agreed that this report would focus specifically on the Company's experience in applying the provisions of Schedule 300 and Rule 6 known as the "net removal tariff." These provisions allow the Company to charge customers choosing to permanently disconnect service for the costs of removing facilities if necessary for safety or operational reasons. PacifiCorp and the Parties agreed that the Schedule 300 Reconnection Charge is not related to the permanent removal of facilities and will be discussed in detail when the Company requests to change that charge rather than in this report.

II. HISTORY OF THE NET REMOVAL TARIFF AND SERVICE AREA AGREEMENT NEGOTIATIONS

Although PacifiCorp serves customers in six states (California, Idaho, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming), PacifiCorp's tariff provisions related to permanent disconnection and removal of facilities are unique to Washington. Unlike any other state jurisdiction in which PacifiCorp provides electric service, Washington does not have statutory provisions granting exclusive service territories to electric utilities. Because the Company's service territories in its other states are exclusive, it does not face safety concerns related to duplicative facilities or competition with other utilities for customers.

Not only is PacifiCorp's net removal tariff unique among the Company's state jurisdictions, but it is also unique among electric utilities in Washington. To protect customers, avoid duplicative facilities, and prevent disputes over service territory, most utilities in Washington have service territory agreements. In just two counties in Washington (Columbia and Walla Walla), the regulated electric utility (PacifiCorp) has been unable to negotiate a service territory with the rural electric association (Columbia REA), despite engaging in negotiations—including negotiations mediated by Commission Staff. Thus, PacifiCorp customers can choose to permanently discontinue receiving service from the Company to switch electric service providers. This unique situation requires a tariff governing the terms of permanent disconnection, including appropriately charging departing customers for the costs of disconnection. Such a tariff is necessary to protect PacifiCorp's remaining customers from increased costs.

PacifiCorp has served customers in Columbia and Walla Walla counties since 1910. PacifiCorp did not have any customers requesting permanent disconnection to switch electric utility providers until January 1999, which necessitated the filing of the net removal tariff. Because this tariff is so unique, its application has been a learning process, as demonstrated by the tariff's history.

A. Original Tariff Filings

On November 9, 2000, in Docket No. UE-001734, PacifiCorp filed a request to implement a tariff to charge a customer for the cost to permanently disconnect from PacifiCorp's system when switching utility providers. The Commission suspended the tariff revisions on November 29, 2000, pending hearings on the Company's proposal.

On May 11, 2001, the Company filed direct testimony.¹ Commission Staff filed testimony on July 2, 2001, which included alternative tariff language, referred to as the "Modified Tariff Proposal."² Under the Modified Tariff Proposal, the Company would charge all customers requesting to permanently disconnect service if the Company's facilities used to provide service would not likely be reused at the site. Commission Staff also proposed a sunset date and reporting requirements. Testimony was filed by Columbia REA, which had been granted intervention in the proceedings on a limited basis, on July 3, 2001.³

PacifiCorp filed a motion to suspend proceedings in Docket No. UE-001734 on July 27, 2001, indicating an interim service territory agreement had been reached with Columbia REA. The Commission granted PacifiCorp's request to suspend proceedings, approved the interim service territory agreement in Docket No. UE-011085, and appointed a mediator to assist with the negotiations of a permanent service territory agreement. Between July 2001 and May 2002, PacifiCorp and Columbia REA had several meetings to discuss the terms of a service territory agreement but were unable to reach an agreement.

On May 21, 2002, the Company notified the Commission that negotiations were unsuccessful and requested to proceed with Docket No. UE-001734. On August 20, 2002, PacifiCorp filed rebuttal testimony, which included acceptance of the Modified Tariff Proposal sponsored by Staff.⁴ An evidentiary hearing was held on September 20, 2002.

The Commission issued the Eighth Supplemental Order in Docket No. UE-001734 approving the Company's filing on November 26, 2002. In the order, the Commission referenced the sunset date and reporting requirement discussed with the Modified Tariff Proposal; however, neither provision was included in the ordering paragraphs or Appendix A of the order. The Company filed its compliance tariff on December 12, 2002, Advice No. 02-010, Docket No. UE-021649. The Company later filed substitute pages in Docket No. UE-021649 on December 20, 2002, and December 23, 2002. On December 30, 2002, the Commission issued its Ninth Supplemental Order in Docket No. UE-001734 approving the Company's compliance tariffs. The Company began filing annual reports with the Commission in 2004.

³ Testimony of Thomas Husted on behalf of Columbia REA, Docket No. UE-001734.

⁴ Rebuttal Testimony of William G. Clemens on behalf of PacifiCorp, Docket No. UE-001734.

In 2006, the Company reviewed the Commission's eighth and ninth supplemental orders in Docket No. UE-001734 and contacted Mr. Henry McIntosh, Commission Staff's witness in that docket, regarding the sunset date and reporting requirements. The Company asked Mr. McIntosh whether any action was required to address the order's discussion of the sunset date. Mr. McIntosh agreed with the Company that the ordering paragraphs did not include the sunset date, and therefore no action was required. Mr. McIntosh recommended the Company continue to file its annual report. Given this guidance from Commission Staff, the Company did not take any further action related to the sunset date. As advised by Commission Staff, the Company has continued to file an annual report each year. Copies of these annual reports are included as Attachment A.

B. Revisions to the Net Removal Tariff

The first change to the Company's net removal tariff was filed June 7, 2012, Advice 12-04, Docket No. UE-120846, in accordance with RCW 80.28.060 and WAC 480-80-105. A copy of the filing is included as Attachment B. The purpose of the filing was to relocate the rule from Rule 4, Application for Electric Service, to Rule 6, Facilities on Customer's Premise, add clarity to the methodology used to calculate the net removal costs, and add time for the Company to complete the reconciliation of the estimate to actual costs. Before submitting this filing, PacifiCorp met with Michael Foisy of Commission Staff to discuss all the changes, using the cover letter it had drafted for the filing as a guide. Commission Staff did not have any objections to the proposed changes, and the proposed filing was added to the No Action Agenda for the Commission's July 12, 2012 Open Meeting. The Company is unaware of any reports or memos that were filed by Commission Staff regarding the Company's filing. The tariff revisions became effective on July 13, 2012.

The only other proposed change to the net removal tariff was filed with the Company's general rate case in Docket No. UE-130043, which led to the filing of this report.

C. Service Area Agreement Negotiations

As discussed above, the issue of unallocated service areas is unique to the Company's Washington service area. Although Washington does not have allocated service areas, the Washington Legislature has stated that it is in the public interest for cooperatives and public utilities to establish service area agreements to prevent duplication of facilities. PacifiCorp agrees with the legislature, and all neighboring utilities in Washington have successfully negotiated service area agreements—including public utility districts, municipal utility districts, rural electric associations and cooperatives, and other investor-owned utilities—except Columbia REA. This lack of a service area agreement is the reason the Company's net removal tariff is necessary. To illustrate the impact of not having a service area agreement with Columbia REA, maps of the Company's Walla Walla service area in 1997, 2007, 2010, and 2013 have been provided in Attachment C.

Also as mentioned above, PacifiCorp and Columbia REA entered into negotiations beginning June 12, 2001, for a service area agreement to address the Company's concerns regarding safety, reliability, and duplication of facilities. Negotiations concluded on May 17, 2002, without an agreement being reached. The details of those negotiations are protected under a confidentiality agreement.

PacifiCorp and Columbia REA resumed service territory negotiations starting on May 15, 2003. Negotiations formally ended July 29, 2004, again with no agreement being reached. The details of those negotiations are also protected under a confidentiality agreement.

Although Washington statutes⁵ encourage utilities to enter into service area agreements to prevent duplication of facilities, these statutes do not address what should happen if a public utility and cooperative are unable to successfully negotiate a service area agreement and duplication of electric facilities occur.

In 2007, the Company reached out to the CEO of Columbia REA about a service area agreement. The CEO informed the Company's president that Columbia REA would not solicit customers but declined to sign an agreement. From 2007 to the present, the number of permanent disconnections requested has increased significantly, making it clear that Columbia REA actively solicited PacifiCorp's customers in spite of the agreement that had been reached. This has resulted in safety concerns from duplicate facilities and concerns about the effect on rates for PacifiCorp's remaining customers. Given these safety and public interest concerns, in September 2013, the Company's president requested in writing that the Columbia REA CEO work with PacifiCorp to negotiate a service area agreement. Columbia REA did not acknowledge the request in a written response, although PacifiCorp and Columbia REA have communicated by telephone. It is too early in the process to determine whether communication will continue or an agreement will be reached, but it is a high priority for PacifiCorp. The president has raised the issue and requested support from the mayors of Walla Walla, College Place, and Dayton, which are communities that have been adversely affected by Columbia REA's active solicitation and installation of duplicate facilities. Each mayor committed to support a service area agreement. In addition, the Mayor and City of College Place have recommended including a requirement for a service area agreement as part of a right-of-way safety ordinance (referenced in more detail below).

III. EXPERIENCES IN APPLYING THE NET REMOVAL TARIFF

The Company has been applying the net removal tariff since its approval in 2002. Because this tariff is so unique, and because PacifiCorp's focus is providing safe, adequate, and efficient electric service to its customers at just and reasonable rates (and not permanently disconnecting service), the Company has been learning how to appropriately implement the tariff as disconnections are performed. The Company's focus is safety issues related to duplicate facilities and preventing remaining customers from subsidizing the costs created by departing customers.

A. Permanent Disconnection Data

The Company compiled a list of the permanent disconnections under the net removal tariff from 2002 through October 2013, included as Attachment D. Included in this list is specific data requested by the Parties during the September 27, 2013, meeting to the extent that data was available. If specific data was not historically tracked, the Company made every effort to provide at least three years of data as agreed upon by the Parties on September 27.

The Company also compiled a list of the 2013 permanent disconnection estimate requests and permanent removals, included as Attachment E. Historically, PacifiCorp has not tracked the number of permanent removal requests. Beginning 2013, manual tracking of this information was implemented to aid the Commission and parties in understanding the impact of permanent disconnections and the need for the net removal tariff. Not all customers requesting an estimate for removal ultimately proceed with the permanent disconnection and removal of facilities. PacifiCorp does not routinely know or capture reasons for customers not proceeding with estimated work for permanent disconnections or construction work activities.

For ease of reference, the tables below provide the number of electric services removed since 2002 and the number of requests for estimates to permanently disconnect service for the year 2013.

B. Increasing Safety Concerns

The Washington Legislature has declared that the duplication of electric facilities of public utilities and cooperatives is “uneconomical, may create unnecessary hazards to the public safety, discourages investment in permanent underground facilities, and is unattractive, and thus is contrary to the public interest.”⁶ But the statute only discourages duplication of facilities; it does not specifically prohibit duplication. Because the Company has been unable to successfully negotiate a service area agreement with Columbia REA, the Company is faced with operating in a service area where duplicate facilities exist. PacifiCorp does not contend with this issue with any other electric service provider in Washington or in any of its other five state jurisdictions.

Addressing the safety issues associated with Columbia REA’s duplication of PacifiCorp’s existing facilities is critical to the safety of the public and the Company’s employees. The following table lists examples, though not all inclusive, of safety concerns PacifiCorp has documented over the past couple of years, which include the inability to come to a proposal on specifications, use of right of ways, and ability of utility workers to restore service in a reasonable amount of time. Pictures illustrating some of these safety issues are included in Attachment F.

ISSUE	EXAMPLES
Delayed utility response to emergency or potentially dangerous situations. Responders need to know which utility to call.	The Company was contacted regarding a substation fire. The Company responded and found it was a Columbia REA substation. The Company contacted Columbia REA to report the fire and have them respond. The Company responded to a report of a primary line too close to the ground. Upon arrival, the Company determined the primary line belonged to Columbia REA. The Company contacted Columbia REA to advise them of the issue.
Connecting service before the other utility disconnects.	When the Company is in the process of permanently disconnecting a customer, the Company requests that neither Columbia REA nor the customer’s electrician connect service until the Company has completed the permanent disconnection of its facilities. On multiple occasions, the Company has arrived to remove its facilities and Columbia REA was already serving the customer. On one occasion, the Company found its meter spinning backwards, indicating there was a power feed from the building into the Company's system. The Company believes that someone other than a Company employee hooked two systems to a common ground, causing a power flow between the two power providers.

Installing buried lines directly under the Company's overhead facilities could lead an excavator or Company employees to think that the lines are only overhead.	Both utilities have arrived to requested excavation locates and painted "No CREA" or "No PP+L" directly on top of the other power provider's high voltage cables. Underground locates for the Company are performed by Locate Inc. Underground locates for Columbia REA are performed by Columbia REA. The Company has also seen examples where the utility locate conducted by Locate Inc. or Columbia REA identifies only one electric utility's facilities when two electric utilities are present. Repairs to Company facilities (such as a distribution pole hit by a car) could be delayed because Columbia REA must come locate its facilities before any digging can begin.
Multiple electric providers on the same structure.	The Company received a request from a customer to permanently disconnect service so the customer could switch utility providers. The customer was located in a multi-tenant building served by PacifiCorp. It is unsafe for one building to be served by two utilities. For example, firefighters or electricians may be unaware the building has a second source of electricity. The Company cannot permanently disconnect a service to a multi-tenant structure unless all of the tenants choose to switch providers. The Company discovered a residence receiving electrical service from Columbia REA while still connected to Pacific Power's energized facilities.
Violation of clearance standards	Columbia REA's contractor planned to bury a new high voltage line 12 inches from one of the Company's

	7,200 volt lines. The Company contacted Columbia REA and requested the line be located at least six feet from the Company's facilities, which is PacifiCorp's construction standard. Columbia REA was reluctant to move its facilities, but addressed the clearance issue after local authorities and Labor and Industries became involved. Columbia REA was required to lower a distribution line under the Company's Walla Walla to Wallula 230kv line because required clearances were not met. The Company is currently working to address another clearance issue involving Columbia REA's distribution line under the Company's Walla Walla to Hurricane 230kv line.

The Company has a duty to its customers, employees, other utility workers, emergency first responders, and the public to develop and enforce standards to ensure their safety. Although the Company uses the National Electric Safety Code (NESC), which are the minimum requirements that utilities must meet, as a guide, the Company's standards are construction standards and may exceed the minimum requirements of the NESC. In the interest of safety, NESC guidelines themselves defer, as appropriate, to local utility standards. Since the issue of multiple utilities serving the same area without a service area agreement or dedicated service territory is unique to Washington, the NESC does not specifically address some of the issues facing the Company, such as multiple electric utilities serving the same structure. In these situations, if the Company does not already have a standard or policy to address the issue, one is created. Unfortunately, the Company cannot compel another utility to follow these same standards and has only received a modest amount of cooperation from Columbia REA in addressing its safety concerns.

Certain cities have started working with PacifiCorp to address these safety concerns. PacifiCorp has provided comments and recommendations—in addition to committing its full support to the highest level—in draft standards developed by the City of College Place. Once adopted, these standards can be an example for other affected cities. The Company has also urged the cities to require service area agreements between utilities as part of these new standards.

C. Effect on Field Staff and Work Priorities

PacifiCorp's primary function is to provide safe, reliable, and affordable service to its customers. The Company is not in the business of permanently disconnecting and removing its facilities. Requests for disconnection affect the scheduling of resources, including employees and materials, which in turn affects customer service and costs. Although the Company attempts to complete all customer requests in a timely manner, including disconnection requests, staffing levels, and prioritization of work affect how quickly a request for a removal estimate is completed. Meeting the Company's obligation to serve comes first, and requests to begin or restore service must be given priority over requests for removal estimates.

Until approximately 2012, the number of requests for removal estimates and actual removals has not significantly burdened the Company's workforce. But as reflected in Attachment A, the number of permanent removals has been increasing since 2011. Along with this increase in number was an increase in the complexity of the removal requests, which affects staffing, type of training, and cost for everything from estimating to actual deconstruction. Some representative examples include:

- Removal of over 80 poles and wires in a large feed lot.
- Removal of primary service and other facilities to an entire subdivision.
- Temporary service to a large independent housing complex where the customer was going to switch providers after construction was complete (it is worth noting that existing service was in place, and duplicate services were constructed specifically to serve after construction was complete).
- Removal of customer-serving facilities located in both Oregon and Washington.
- Request to remove one service to a structure with multiple services provided by PacifiCorp so that one lessee could have their service provided by another electric utility provider. The remaining services in the building would be provided by PacifiCorp.
- Request from customer asserts that the Company should remove wire from 1,500 feet of conduit to enable Columbia REA to install its wire in the same conduit (paid for by PacifiCorp customers).

This increase in the number of requests and complexity of the requests, coupled with retirements of operations personnel in 2012 and 2013 and the Company's commitment to fulfill its primary obligation to provide service to its customers, has resulted in some delays in customers receiving removal estimates in 2013. The retiree positions are now filled, and requests for removal estimates are being processed in a timelier manner, although challenges still exist depending on the complexity of the request and other workload.

IV. CALCULATING COSTS UNDER THE NET REMOVAL TARIFF

Because implementation of the net removal tariff has been a learning process for the Company, the Company's cost calculation methods have been refined over time. New issues have also arisen as permanent disconnection requests have increased.

When the Company's tariff was initially approved in 2002, the charges for removal of residential service drops and meters only were set at $200 for overhead service and $400 for underground service. These charges were based on the Company's estimated cost for performing the work. For all other removals, the charge was set at "Actual Costs, Less Salvage." The Company initially considered net removal costs as the labor cost to remove the facilities less any salvage value. This charge was intended to be reasonable and fair, but to also avoid or lessen the impact on remaining customers. Net book value of the removed facilities was not included in the calculation. The salvage value was determined from the Company's Retail Construction Management System (RCMS).

As the Company gained experience in applying the net removal tariff, the methodology for the calculation was refined. In 2003, the Company identified situations where the salvage value exceeded the actual (labor) costs. In this situation, using the actual (labor) cost less salvage resulted in a credit to the customer. This made it clear that not all costs were being included using this calculation methodology. PacifiCorp therefore modified how it determined salvage value and began to offset salvage by the net book value of the removed facilities. If the calculation resulted in a positive number, then the customer was credited a salvage value. If it resulted in a negative number, no credit for salvage would be applied to the job. The Company followed this policy until late 2012.

With the significant increase in removal work performed in 2010 and 2011, the Company again reviewed its calculation methodology and determined that it needed to update its calculation of net book value because the remaining net book value of the removed facilities was not being appropriately captured in the calculation. Since the net book value of the removed facilities is a cost that the Company incurs as a result of the customer's request to permanently disconnect electric service, the Company considers net book value a component of the actual cost of the removal. Beginning in late 2012, the Company included the remaining net book value of the removed facilities in the actual cost for removals. The method used to calculate net book value is further described below.

The Company also determined that a more consistent approach to establishing salvage value of electric facilities for removal work was necessary to ensure the proper allocation of costs between the Company and the departing customer. The Company therefore developed a template worksheet to determine salvage value. A copy of this worksheet is included as Attachment G.

A. Method to Calculate Net Book Value

Net Book Value Calculation:

Net Book Value = Retirement Amount (Gross Plant) – Accumulated Depreciation
The Company uses the group depreciation method for its fixed assets; the estimated accumulated depreciation for an asset within an asset group is the calculated depreciation for the asset based on its vintage and the retirement characteristics (the approved survivor model or Iowa Curve) for the asset group.

The retirement amount of the asset is determined as follows:

Specific Asset Identification (gross cost):

The removed asset is specifically identified from the Company's property records.

Assets Using Handy Whitman Index (gross cost):

If the removed asset is not specifically identified in the Company’s property records, then the Company will apply the Handy-Whitman Index of Public Utility Construction Cost. The Handy Whitman Index (HW) was developed specifically for electric utility construction and used to trend earlier valuations and original cost records to estimate reproduction cost at prices prevailing at a certain date. The index consists of prices and cost trends for basic materials, labor, and equipment.

The calculation for a removed asset using the Handy Whitman Index is:

- Retirement amount = Vintage year HW index (1) / Current year HW index * Cost of new asset
- (1) Vintage year is the estimated year that the removed asset was originally installed.

Mass Assets (gross cost):

Mass assets are typically referred to as poles and conductor where the assets are tracked by location, vintage year, and asset class. Mass assets are retired based on the average costs of all assets for the given location, vintage year, and asset class.

The calculation for a removed Mass Asset is:

- Retirement amount = Average costs of installed asset for a given location, vintage year (1), asset class * quantity retired.

B. Method of Salvage Value Calculation

The Company provides a full salvage value if facilities are to be reused by the Company in their current condition. This value is the average price from PacifiCorp’s material management accounting system (SAP MM). For transformers older than two years, the Company sends the transformers in for maintenance before redeploying them. For these transformers, the salvage value used is a percentage of the SAP MM price.

The Company performs annual inventory audits at all of its locations. Additionally, every three to four years there is an internal audit performed by an internal finance team. The last internal audit conducted for the Company’s Walla Walla district occurred in 2011. The Company completed its internal audit of its Yakima district September 2013.

C. Other Cost Calculation Issues

1. Line Extension Costs

PacifiCorp’s Washington Rule 1, approved by the WUTC, defines “extensions” as:

[A] branch from, a continuation of, or an increase in the capacity of Company owned transmission or distribution lines or facilities that have not been removed, at customer request, within the last five years. An Extension may be single-phase, three-phase, or a conversion from single-phase to three-phase. The Company will own, operate and maintain all Extensions made under these Rules. (Emphasis added)

Facilities are those things designed, built, installed, or otherwise used to serve the specific function of providing electric power and service. The demarcation point between a customer's facilities and the Company's facilities is the point of attachment. The Company owns all facilities up to the point of attachment, as well as the meter. Customers own the facilities beyond the point of attachment, excluding metering.

The Company does not have a specific reporting process that provides a summary of all the facilities that were paid for or provided by customers through a line extension. The Company can identify the facilities provided by customers through a line extension through a manual review of individual work orders. The Company does not include facilities that were provided or installed by customers in the original line extension when determining net book value.

Columbia REA has questioned whether the Company provides a credit to those customers who paid a portion of the installation costs for the facilities being removed. The Company has not historically included line extensions that were paid for by customers in its calculations for permanent disconnection. In reviewing the actual cost calculation methodology, the Company will be making a change to incorporate customer contributions made toward the original installation as a credit towards the net book value of the facilities removed. Removal requests made within five years of the line extension installation will be eligible for a proportional line extension credit. This five-year timeframe is consistent with the duration used for customer refunds on line extensions.⁷ It is important to note, however, that facilities that were paid for as part of a line extension could be removed at no cost to the departing customer if the facilities are located within the public right-of-way. Since 2003, the Company has completed a total of 9,514 line extensions in Washington (see Attachment H). Of those line extensions, two had permanent disconnections completed within five years of the line extension being installed.

2. Costs Not Recovered From Departing Customer

Although the net removal tariff is intended to hold PacifiCorp's remaining customers harmless from the effects of a departing customer, not all costs can be captured in the cost calculation. For example, lost revenue is not included.

In addition, the Company's tariff states the actual cost for removal of facilities may not include any amount for facilities located on a public right-of-way, except for the service drop and meter or unless the customer specifically requested that those facilities to be removed. In 2012, the Company also excluded the removal of area lights from the costs that departing customers would pay, provided that the customer had been billed for the light for a minimum of three years. The Company has been encouraging the removal of area lights due to the costs associated with maintaining and replacing them. By excluding the removal of area lights from the amounts a customer would pay, the Company eliminated any barrier a customer might have from requesting that only the area light be removed.

When the Company initially filed the net removal tariff, it was generally accepted that unused facilities located within the public right-of-way could be left in place to be reused at a future date. However, municipalities such as Dayton, Yakima, and Yakima County, have since adopted ordinances that require the Company to remove unused facilities within the public right-of-way. Also, for operations and maintenance purposes, certain facilities need to be removed. Examples would be transformers and poles with little or no chance of serving future customers. Due to the limitation in the tariff, the removal cost for these facilities is borne by PacifiCorp's remaining customers. The cost to PacifiCorp's Washington customers of the removal of facilities in the public right of way is included the total cost impact to Company and ratepayers noted in Attachment D.

If there is no municipal requirement for the Company to remove the facilities, the Company may leave the unused facilities in the public right-of-way. The ongoing maintenance costs associated with leaving unused facilities within the public right-of-way is borne by PacifiCorp's remaining Washington customers. Historically, this cost has not been separately recorded and tracked.

V. The Company's Permanent Disconnection and Removal Process, Procedure, and Tracking

Until 2010, the removal requests the Company received were from residential, commercial, and irrigation customers. Those removals were fairly straightforward, and the number of requests was manageable. In 2010, the Company received its first industrial customer request for permanent disconnection, raising unique issues. Following the 2010 industrial removal request, operations personnel recognized the need to establish a consistent permanent disconnection and removal process and procedure to assist personnel in addressing these more complex requests.

As a process was being developed, additional industrial removal requests were received in 2011 and 2012, presenting issues and complexities that had not previously been encountered, including simply the volume and frequency. The Company continued its work to develop processes and procedures and implemented them at various stages in 2012 and 2013. The following is a summary of the procedure currently used:

Customer Request for Estimate: A customer makes a request for disconnection of service through the Company's call center. The representative issues a work request to have an estimator contact the customer.

Creating the Removal Estimate: The work request is received by an estimator in the local operations area and the estimator identifies the job as a permanent removal of facilities. Currently, the Company does not have a work request code specific to permanent disconnection requests. The Company is therefore unable to identify historical net removal requests unless the request resulted in the actual removal of facilities. Starting in January 2013, the estimator began manually tracking requests for estimates for the permanent removal of facilities. In 2014, a system change will be implemented that includes a unique work request code for permanent removal of facilities for ease in tracking and reporting.

The estimator will make a site visit to determine the facilities that need to be removed for operational or safety reasons. Facilities are defined as those things designed, built, installed, or otherwise used to serve the specific function of providing electric power and service. The following is a high level summary of the how a removal estimate is developed:

- Residential Removals (service drop and meter only):
 1. Determine facilities to be removed are service drop and meter only through visual inspection.
 2. Send estimate for appropriate residential removal fee and contract to customer.
 3. Track actual cost of removal.

- All Other Removals:
 1. Determine facilities to be removed through visual inspection and maps the facilities to be removed for operational and safety reasons.
 2. Determine the allocation of removal costs between the customer and Company (e.g., if the facilities are in the public right-of-way, they are charged to the Company) for the facilities that will be removed as result of the customer's request, including any necessary installation work.
 3. Determine the salvage value using RCMS. RCMS is updated weekly with the salvage information from the Company's accounting system to ensure RCMS reflects a current salvage value.
 4. Determine whether the facilities being removed were installed within five years. If yes, determine whether the customer advanced any money for the original installation of the facilities being removed. If the customer paid for the original installation of the facilities, the estimator calculates the eligible credit.
 5. Obtain the net book value from corporate accounting.
 6. Calculate removal estimate based on template spreadsheet (see Attachment G).
 7. Estimate and contract sent to customer.

Determination of Facilities to be Removed: The Company uses the NESC, PacifiCorp construction standards, the Company's tariff, operation and maintenance requirements, and municipal requirements to determine which facilities must be removed. The Company also considers whether there will be a future use for the facilities in their current location. The Company does not track the specific operational or safety reason necessitating the removal of facilities. Note that facilities are only removed if there is a safety or operational reason for removal of the facilities.

Underground Facilities/Purchase of Facilities: NESC Part 3, Safety Rules for the Installation and Maintenance of Underground Electric Supply and Communication Lines, Section 313.B.3, requires that the Company's unused underground lines and equipment either be removed or maintained in a safe condition. Because the Company has an obligation both to reduce costs for its customers and comply with the requirements of the NESC, the Company decided that all Company facilities not likely to be reused by PacifiCorp to serve its customers would be removed as part of a customer's request to permanently disconnect service, including underground facilities. This eliminated the need for the Company to track or to maintain the facilities or to remove them at a later date.

In response to a customer's concern with damage to the property should the underground facilities be removed, the Company reviewed the issue more closely in a general context, and agreed that in lieu of having the underground facilities removed, it would provide customers the option of purchasing those facilities. The sale price offered by the Company would be the estimated removal cost for the underground facilities.

Charge for Estimates: Although the Company is not currently charging customers to prepare the removal estimate, in April 2011 the Company implemented a charge to customers to cover the estimating costs upfront, and later credited the charge towards the final cost of the removal. This process was implemented to avoid negative effects for remaining customers caused by speculative requests for net removal estimates. After additional review by management, the practice was discontinued in July 2011. Because the Company did not track the requests for removals in 2011, the Company is unable to identify how many customers may have been quoted a charge for the removal estimate. Of the nine removal estimates that were requested and completed in 2011, three customers (see Attachment D) paid the estimating charge upfront, and the amount of the charge was credited towards the customers' final removal costs. The amount of the estimating charge is noted in the "Comments" column of AttachmentD.

Completion of Removal: The estimator provides the customer an estimate and contract. The estimate is valid for 90 days. Receipt of payment and an executed contract represents an authorization for the Company to proceed with the detailed design and/or the permanent disconnection and removal work. Once the contract and payment is received, the Company will work with either the customer or their representative to determine a date for the removal to occur.

Reconciliation to Actual Costs: Within 60 days of completing the removal, the Company reconciles the estimate to final actual costs, less RCMS salvage, and provides the customer with an invoice or refund for the difference. The actual cost of a removal includes the removal costs plus the net book value of the facilities that are removed less salvage (Actual Costs = Removal Costs + Net Book Value – Salvage). The template calculation spreadsheet used to reconcile the actual costs is included at Attachment G. This calculation sheet would be completed by the manager and remain a part of the job documentation. The spreadsheet not only simplifies the reconciliation calculation process for the manager, but adds consistency to the process and reduces the potential for errors in calculating the cost for the removal. All costs associated with the removal are included in one work order in the Company's financial accounting system, SAP. The proportional share of customer/Company costs is identified through RCMS and applied to the actual costs in SAP plus net book value less salvage.

Attachment I is being provided as a sample of an invoice provided to the customer following reconciliation of the estimated costs to the actual costs.

VI. Company's Response to Columbia REA (Order 04, ¶7)

In Order 04 in Docket No. UE-130043, the Commission ordered the Company to address Columbia REA's concerns and proposals as delineated in paragraph 7 of the order. PacifiCorp includes its responses to each point below:

- 1. A departing customer should only be required to pay the reasonable costs associated with net removal, and PacifiCorp should be required to use "good utility practices" when removing facilities.*

As discussed in detail above, PacifiCorp charges only the actual costs of removal, including the net book value of the assets being removed, less any salvage credit for items that are able to be re-used. This cost calculation is reasonable and is intended to prevent PacifiCorp's remaining customers from subsidizing a departing customer's decision to switch to a different utility provider. Also as described above, PacifiCorp relies on the NESC, as well as its own safety and construction standards, in determining whether facilities need to be removed for operational or safety reasons. It is unclear what Columbia REA means by "good utility practices," but PacifiCorp is committed to providing safe, adequate, and reliable service to its customers at a reasonable cost, and PacifiCorp's net removal policies are developed in that context.

- 2. A departing customer should be permitted to retain a qualified independent third-party to remove any facilities.*

Historically, the Company has not allowed third parties to remove Company facilities. The Company is willing, however, to allow departing customers to select a vendor from the Company's approved contractors list to remove facilities. The Company selects vendors based on a number of factors, including safety record, cost, and knowledge of the system. For liability reasons, any third-party working on the Company's facilities must be bonded and contracted with the Company to perform the work.

- 3. PacifiCorp's cost for removing the facilities should not exceed the salvage value of the facility, unless the customer has specifically requested that the facilities must be removed. When the costs of removal exceed the salvage value, then the customer* should be given the opportunity to retain and purchase the facility for their reasonable salvage value.

The Company does not support Columbia REA's proposal that the cost for removing the facilities should not exceed the salvage value of the facility unless the customer has specifically requested that the facilities must be removed. Neither does PacifiCorp support the proposal that if the costs of removal exceed the salvage value, then the customer should be given the opportunity to retain and purchase the facilities. The purpose of the net removal tariff has been, and should continue to be, to ensure the costs associated with a customer's request to permanently disconnect service is not subsidized by other customers.

Columbia REA's proposal will not meet this goal and prevent subsidization of removal costs by other customers. The proposal caps the cost of permanent disconnection at salvage value (whether removed or left in place and purchased by the departing customer), regardless of the actual costs of the disconnection. All other removal costs, which could be substantial depending on the complexity and scope of the removal and the remaining net book value of the facilities, would be subsidized by the Company's remaining customers.

Columbia REA's self-interest in this proposal should not be ignored. PacifiCorp understands that Columbia REA has paid the permanent disconnection costs for several customers and continues to offer to pay these costs for departing customers. Columbia REA's proposal would require the Company to offer to sell portions of its service area at the individual customer level for less than market value. This policy would subsidize Columbia REA's expansion of its service area at the expense of PacifiCorp's customers.

The Company should continue to recover from the customer requesting permanent disconnection of service all costs associated with its request, even if those costs exceed the salvage value. The option to sell Company facilities should continue to be at the Company's discretion.

4. PacifiCorp should only recover its actual costs of removal, and should not be allowed to recover stranded costs or depreciation.

The Company opposes Columbia REA's proposal. The purpose of the net removal tariff has been, and should continue to be, to ensure the costs associated with a departing customer's request to permanently disconnect service are not subsidized by other customers. The stranded costs or depreciation are part of the costs associated with the customer's decision to permanently disconnect service, and these costs should be paid for by the departing customer and not by PacifiCorp's remaining Washington customers.

5. PacifiCorp should provide a removal cost estimate within 30 days of the request of the customer. The removal estimate should contain engineering, removal costs, the cost to abandon certain facilities in place, and should identify the safety and operational reasons for the removal.

PacifiCorp makes every effort to provide timely preliminary estimates in response to a request, but must properly prioritize these requests given the Company's obligation to serve. It is not in the interest of PacifiCorp's customers or the public for PacifiCorp to be required to give higher priority to requests for removal estimates than requests for service or repairs. Once the scope of the project has been determined and agreed upon by both parties, every effort is made to provide a timely preliminary estimate of the customer's removal costs. The safety or operational reasons for removing facilities beyond those required to serve the customer, can be provided.

6. PacifiCorp should be required to provide a thorough accounting of all net removal costs, and the salvage value with its final bill.

PacifiCorp will continue to calculate the final net removal costs and provide to the customer the total removal expense, including net book value and salvage value. These final costs are reconciled against the preliminary estimate and the customer is invoiced or refunded the difference to ensure the customer is responsible only for the actual removal costs as provided by the filed tariff.

7. PacifiCorp should not be required to impose any charges that are not specified in the net removal tariff, and the Company should be required to request approval from this Commission before imposing any new charges upon customers.

PacifiCorp agrees with Columbia REA's proposal that the Company not be required to impose any charges that are not specified in its net removal tariff. The Company also agrees that the Company should seek approval from the Commission before imposing any new charges associated with its net removal tariff.

VII. Annual Reporting Proposal

To ensure data is readily available for future review of the Company's application of Rule 6.I., the Company proposes to continue to file an annual report with the Commission confirming the net removals that are completed each year. However, in light of the Parties' concerns regarding the limited data available in previous filed reports, the Company is open to working with the Parties to develop a more comprehensive report that will be beneficial for future evaluation of its net removal tariff.

VIII. Conclusion

The purpose of PacifiCorp's motion to withdraw of its proposed tariff revisions to Schedule 300 and Rule 6 from Docket No. UE-130043 was to enable additional data to be gathered and to perform additional analysis to determine the actual cost of Rule 6 and Schedule 300 services. The Company has explained in this report the steps it has taken to develop a formal net removal process to ensure consistent application of the permanent disconnection rules and cost calculations. The Company has also proposed a comprehensive annual report identifying key items that it believes will be beneficial for evaluating its net removal tariff.

At this time, the Company is not proposing any changes to its net removal tariff. The Company will continue to gather data to determine whether future changes are necessary and will continue to file annual reports on the application of the net removal tariff. Because no changes are proposed at this time, the Company recommends that the Commission allow the Company to continue its data collection efforts and monitor the Company's application of the currently approved net removal tariff through the improved annual reporting process proposed in this report.

RE: Advice No. 12-04 - Housekeeping

Dear Mr. Danner:

Pursuant to RCW 80.28.060 and WAC 480-80-105, PacifiCorp, d.b.a., Pacific Power & Light Company, (PacifiCorp or Company) submits this housekeeping filing to Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission (Commission) in order to clarify and reorganize language related to the following tariff schedules:

First Revision to Sheet 300.1	Schedule 300	Charges as Defined by the Rules and Regulations
First Revision to Sheet 300.2	Schedule 300	Charges as Defined by the Rules and Regulations
First Revision to Sheet R1.2	Rule 1	General Rules and Regulations-Definitions
First Revision to Sheet R4.2	Rule 4	General Rules and Regulations-Application for Electric Service
First Revision to Sheet R4.3	Rule 4	General Rules and Regulations-Application for Electric Service
Cancel Original Sheet R4.4	Rule 4	General Rules and Regulations-Application for Electric Service
First Revision to Sheet R6.2	Rule 6	General Rules and Regulations-Facilities on Customer's Premises
Original Sheet R6.3	Rule 6	General Rules and Regulations-Facilities on Customer's Premises
First Revision to Sheet R14.11	Rule 14	General Rules and Regulations-Line Extensions

The revisions requested by the Company in this filing are mostly related to clarifications, grammatical revisions and better organization of information. Included as work papers are the redlined versions of the tariff sheets denoting each of the changes. The Company is not requesting any rate changes in this filing. The Company respectfully requests an effective date of July 13, 2012 for the revisions to these tariffs. Following is a description of all the tariff revisions requested in this filing per tariff sheet:

Tariff Sheet R1.2: The revision to Rule 1 simply defines the term “Permanent Disconnection” as used throughout PacifiCorp’s tariffs.

Tariff Sheet R4.2: The revisions to Rule 4, beginning on tariff sheet 4.2, moves the language currently found in Section 3 of Rule 4.F. to Section 1 in Rule 6.I. Section 3 remains a reference to Permanent Disconnections and cross references Rule 6 for how Permanent Disconnections will be handled. In addition, Section 5 of Rule 4.F. moves from its current position on tariff sheet R4.3 to sheet R4.2 and is renumbered to Section 4. Section 4 now discusses the rule related to a customer refusing access to Company representatives.

Tariff Sheet R4.3: Section 4 of Rule 4.F. found on tariff sheet R4.3 moves to Section 2 of Rule 6.I. Section 5 of Rule 4.F moves to sheet R4.2 and Section 6 of Rule 4.F moves to Section 3 of Rule 6.I. for the first two sentences. The remainder of Section 6 from Rule 4.F. moves to Section 4 of Rule 6.I.

Tariff Sheet R4.4: Section G of Rule 4 moves up to tariff sheet R4.3. As such, tariff sheet R4.4 becomes blank and should be deleted.

Tariff Sheet R6.2: Sections I, J, and K of Rule 6 are renumbered to J, K, and L respectively, and moved to sheet R6.3. Rule 6.I. is renamed to “Permanent Disconnection and Removal of Company Facilities” and the language from sheets R4.2 and R4.3 is moved to Rule 6.I. For Section 1 of Rule 6.I., clarifications are added to the language related to Permanent Disconnection and removal of Company facilities.

Tariff Sheet R6.3 (New): Sections 2, 3, 4 and 5 are added to Section I of Rule 6 and appear on tariff sheet R6.3. Clarifications are added to the language related to Permanent Disconnection and removal of Company facilities. Sections J, K, and L of Rule 6 are located on sheet R6.3.

Tariff Sheet R14.11: Language related to the requirement for a customer to sign a General Service Contract in certain situations is added to Section E of Rule 14 on tariff sheet R14.11.

Tariff Sheets 300.1 and 300.2: Residential service removal charges for overhead and underground facilities are moved to Schedule 300.1 from Section 1 of Rule 6.I. The references to the “Returned Check Charge” and “Late Payment Charge” are moved from sheet 300.1 to sheet 300.2.

NOTICE PACIFIC POWER

Pursuant to Washington Law (including without limitation RCW 80.28.050 and -060) and the Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission's (the "Commission") Rules & Regulations, Pacific Power has filed with the Commission the original tariff schedules for electric service in the State of Washington.

Overview

The revisions requested by the Company in this filing are mostly related to clarifications, grammatical revisions and better organization of information. The revisions affect rules related to the Company's general rules and regulations, definitions, application for electric services, facilities on customer's premises and the reorganization of charges defined by the rules and regulations. The Company is not requesting any rate changes in this filing.

The Commission will examine the Company's proposed tariff sheets. As a result of such examination, the Commission may determine that any or all of said schedules should be accepted as filed, modified or rejected.

Title: Vice President, Regulation

Rule 1
GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS - DEFINITIONS

Extension: A branch from, a continuation of, or an increase in the capacity of Company owned transmission or distribution lines or facilities, that have not been removed, at customer request, within the last five years. An Extension may be single-phase, three-phase, or a conversion from single-phase to three-phase. The Company will own, operate and maintain all Extensions made under these Rules.

Intermittent Service: Service to equipment having high demands of short duration requiring that the Company provide additional or excess investment in transformers, services or other facilities. This includes, but is not limited to, service to furnaces, pelletizers, elevator or hoist motors, welders, and x-ray equipment.

Kilovar (kvar): A unit of reactive power equal to 1,000 reactive volt-amperes.

Kilovar-hours (kvarh): The amount of reactive flow in one hour, at a constant rate of kilovar.

Kilowatt (kW): A unit of power equal to 1,000 watts.

Kilowatt-hour (kWh): The amount of energy delivered in one hour, when delivery is at a constant rate of one kilowatt.

Permanent Disconnection: Disconnection of service where the Customer has either requested the Company permanently disconnect the Company's facilities or chosen to be served by another electric utility provider.

(N)
(N)
(N)

Premises: All of the real property and apparatus employed in a single enterprise on an integral parcel of land undivided by a dedicated street, highway or other public thoroughfare, or railway.

Remote Service: Service to distant or isolated locations which, in the Company's opinion, will not have sufficient annual Schedule Billings to cover the Company's annual incurred costs. A distant location is any location, or group of locations, more than one-half mile from the Company's existing distribution facilities. An isolated location is one where additional development is unlikely due to geographical constraints, and may be less than one-half mile from existing distribution facilities.

Schedule Billing: The total of charges for service, including minimums, computed in accordance with Company's applicable rate schedule.

Seasonal Service: Service for annually recurring periods of use where service is disconnected or curtailed during part of the year. This includes frost protection service and other services of a seasonal nature, both agricultural and non-agricultural.

Service: As used herein, usually refers to the availability of electric power and energy at the point of delivery for use by the Customer irrespective of whether power or energy is actually utilized. The word "Service" may also be used to refer to the wires between Company's supply and the Customer's entrance conductors.

Rule 4
GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS – APPLICATION FOR ELECTRIC SERVICE

C. CHANGE OF CUSTOMER'S SERVICE OR EQUIPMENT:

In the event that the Customer shall make any material change either in the amount or character of the electric appliances, apparatus or equipment installed upon his premises to be supplied with electric energy by Company, the Customer shall give Company prior written notice of this fact. This rule is intended to be consistent with WAC 480-100-148, "Service Responsibility," of the "Washington Administrative Code."

D. IMPAIRMENT OF SERVICE TO OTHER CUSTOMERS:

Company reserves the right to refuse service to loads of a character that may seriously impair service to any other Customers. In the case of hoist or elevator motors, welders, furnaces, compressors and other installations of like character, where the use of electricity is intermittent or subject to violent fluctuations, Company may require the Customer to provide at his own expense suitable equipment to reasonably limit such fluctuations.

E. CHANGE OF OCCUPANCY:

When a change of occupancy occurs, notice of such change must be given to Company prior to the date of such change, or the outgoing Customer will be held responsible for all service supplied at that location until such notice has been received by Company.

F. AVAILABILITY OF FACILITIES:

Company shall not be required to maintain facilities in place or to continue the availability of facilities installed for the customer's service when:

1. Facilities are not being utilized to provide service in accordance with an application for service; or
2. Such service is not furnished in accordance with contract provisions set forth in this tariff. (T)
3. Customer requests Permanent Disconnection of Company's facilities. Refer to Rule 6 for requirements of Permanent Disconnection and Removal of Company Facilities. (C), (N) (N),(K) to R6.2
4. Customer has refused to provide authorized representatives of the Company access to the Customer's property during reasonable hours to perform necessary functions such as meter reading, maintenance, repairs, testing, installation or removal of the Company's property. The Company must provide photo identification to Company representatives who are authorized to enter Customers' premises. Customers have the right to see the Company-provided identification before allowing entry to the Customer's property. (T), (M) from page 3 (M)

GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS – APPLICATION FOR ELECTRIC SERVICE

G. REFUSAL OF SERVICE:

1. The Company may refuse requests to provide service to a master meter in a building with permanent occupants when all of the following conditions exist:
 - a. The building or property has more than one dwelling unit;
 - b. The occupants control a significant part of the electricity used in the individual units; and
 - c. It is cost-effective for the occupants to have the utility purchase and install individual meters considering the long-run benefits of measuring and billing each occupant's electric use separately.

2. The Company may refuse to provide new or additional service if:
 - a. Providing service does not comply with government regulations or the electric industry accepted standards concerning the provision of service;
 - b. In the Company's reasonable judgment, the Applicant's or Customer's installation of wiring or electrical equipment is considered hazardous;
 - c. The Applicant or Customer does not comply with the Company's request that the Applicant or Customer provide and install protective devices as deemed necessary by the Company;
 - d. The Applicant or Customer does not comply with the Company's request that the Applicant or Customer provide and install protective devices, when the Company, in its reasonable judgment deems such protective devices are necessary to protect the Company's or other Customers' properties from theft or damage;
 - e. After reasonable efforts by the responsible party, all necessary rights of way, easements, approvals, and permits have not been secured; or
 - f. The Customer is known by the Company to have tampered with or stolen the Company's property, used service through an illegal connection, or fraudulently obtained service and the Company has complied with WAC 480-100-128(2), disconnection of service.

3. The Company may not refuse to provide new or additional service to a residential Applicant or residential Customer who has a prior obligation. A prior obligation is the dollar amount, excluding deposit amounts owed, the Company has billed to the Customer and for which the Company has not received payment at the time the service has been disconnected for nonpayment. The Company must provide service once the Customer or Applicant has paid all appropriate deposit and reconnection fees. This subsection does not apply to Customers that have been disconnected for failure to honor the terms of a winter low-income payment program.

4. The Company may not refuse to provide service to an Applicant or Customer because there are outstanding amounts due from a prior Customer at the same premises, unless the Company can determine, based on objective evidence, that a fraudulent act is being committed, such that the Applicant or Customer is acting in cooperation with the prior Customer with the intent to avoid payment.

Rule 6
GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS – FACILITIES ON CUSTOMER'S PREMISES

- D. RIGHTS-OF-WAY:
The Applicant shall provide without cost to Company all rights-of-way and easements required for the installation of facilities necessary or convenient for the supplying of electric service. (T)
- E. ACCESS TO FACILITIES:
The Customer shall provide safe, unobstructed access to Company representatives during reasonable hours to maintain the Company's electric transmission and distribution facilities. The Customer shall also permit the Company to trim trees and other vegetation to the extent necessary to avoid interference with the Company's lines and to protect public safety. (T)
- F. ACCESS TO METERS:
The Customer shall provide safe, unobstructed access to Company representatives during reasonable hours for the purpose of reading meters, inspecting, repairing, or removing metering devices and wiring of the Company. (T)
- G. IMPAIRED CLEARANCE:
Whenever any of the clearances required by the applicable laws, ordinances, rules, or regulations of public authorities from the service drops to the ground or any object becomes impaired by reason of any change made by the owner or tenant of the premises, the Customer shall at his own expense, provide a new and approved support, in a location approved by Company, for the termination of Company's existing service wires and shall also provide all service entrance conductors and equipment necessitated by the change of location. (T)
- H. RELOCATION OF SERVICES AND FACILITIES:
If relocation of service or distribution facilities on or adjacent to the Customer's premises, including Company-owned transformers, is for the convenience of the Applicant or the Customer, such relocation will be performed by Company provided the Applicant or the Customer pays in advance, a nonrefundable sum equal to the estimated installed cost of the relocated facilities, including operating expense, plus estimated removal cost, less estimated salvage and less depreciation of the facilities to be removed. (T)
- I. PERMANENT DISCONNECTION AND REMOVAL OF COMPANY FACILITIES:
1. When Customer requests Permanent Disconnection of Company's facilities, Customer shall pay to Company the actual cost for removal less salvage of only those facilities that need to be removed for safety or operational reasons, and only if those facilities were necessary to provide service to Customer. However, the actual cost for removal less salvage charged to Customer making a request under this paragraph shall not include any amount for any facilities located on public right of way (other than the meter and service drop) or for the removal of area lights which have been installed and billed for a minimum of three years. When the facilities removed by Company are the overhead or underground residential service drop and meter only, the Customer shall pay the applicable Residential Service Removal Charge as Described in Schedule 300. Rule 6

I. PERMANENT DISCONNECTION AND REMOVAL OF COMPANY FACILITIES: (continued)

- 2. When Customer requests Permanent Disconnection of Company's facilities and Customer also requests Company to remove specific facilities, Customer shall pay to Company the amounts described in paragraph 1 above, as well as the actual cost for removal less salvage of any different facilities Customer requests be removed. Notwithstanding the last sentence of paragraph 1, the actual cost for removal less salvage charged to a Customer making a request under this paragraph may include amounts for facilities located on public right of way if Customer specifically requests such facilities be removed. However, the Company will not charge the Customer for the removal of area lights which have been installed and billed for a minimum of three years, even if the removal of those facilities were requested by the Customer.
- 3. Company shall remove facilities pursuant to paragraph 1 and 2 only to the extent it can do so without an adverse impact on the service provided, or to be provided, to other Customers.
- 4. In billing for removal of facilities under paragraphs 1 and 2, Company shall charge Customer for the actual cost for removal, less salvage, unless the specific charge stated in paragraph 1 applies. Company shall provide an estimate of such charges to Customer prior to removal of facilities. The Customer shall pay the amount estimated prior to disconnection and removal of facilities. The facilities shall be removed at a date and time convenient to both the Customer and Company. No later than 60 days after removal, Company shall determine the actual cost for removal less salvage, and adjust the estimated bill to that amount, unless the Residential Service Removal Charge applies.
- 5. For the purpose of Permanent Disconnection and Removal of Company Facilities, salvage is defined as the non-zero value difference between the salvage value and net book value of the Company facilities that are removed.

J. MAINTENANCE OF CUSTOMER'S FACILITIES:

Customers are responsible for maintaining their own facilities. If a Customer requests a service call, and the problem is in the Customer's facilities, the Company may charge for the service call as specified in Schedule 300.

K. OTHER WORK AT CUSTOMER'S REQUEST:

The Company may collect a charge specified in Schedule 300 when it performs work at the Customer's request.

L. LIABILITY:

Company's liability shall cease at the point of delivery and the use of electric service beyond said point is at the risk and responsibility of the customer.

Rule 14
GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS – LINE EXTENSIONS

V. EXTENSION EXCEPTIONS: (continued)

E. TEMPORARY SERVICE:

The Company will provide Temporary Service upon payment of a Temporary Service charge. The charge for installations requiring only a service drop and a meter is specified in Schedule 300. All other installations require a written agreement and payment of:

- the estimated installation cost, plus
- the estimated removal cost, plus
- the estimated cost for rearranging any existing facilities, less
- the estimated salvage value of the facilities required to provide Temporary Service.

The Company may require a Customer to sign a General Service Contract when Customer is requesting a temporary electrical service in connection with the construction of permanent facilities. The Customer is also responsible for: electric service supplied under the appropriate rate schedule; any advances required for sharing previous Extensions; and, Contract Minimum Billings. (N)

If a Customer takes Temporary Service under a Temporary Service Contract continuously for 60 consecutive months, the Company will classify the Extension as permanent and refund any payment the Customer made over that required of a permanent Customer. The Company will not refund the Facilities Charges. (N)

VI. RELOCATION OR REPLACEMENT OF FACILITIES:

A. RELOCATION OF FACILITIES:

If requested by an Applicant or Customer the Company will: relocate distribution facilities on to, or adjacent to, the Customer's premises; and/or, replace existing overhead distribution facilities with comparable underground (overhead to underground conversion). Applicant or Customer is also responsible for Routes, Easements and Rights-of-Way as given in Section I.I of this rule. Substation facilities and transmission voltage facilities will be relocated at the discretion of the Company.

For overhead to underground relocations (conversions), the new underground system must not impair the use of the remaining overhead system. The Applicant or Customer must elect either: to provide all trenching and backfilling, imported backfill material, conduits, and equipment foundations that the Company requires for the relocation; or, to pay the Company to provide these items.

In addition, the Applicant or Customer must advance the following:

1. The estimated installed cost of the new facilities plus the estimated removal expense of the existing facilities, less
2. The estimated salvage value of the removed facilities.

This Advance is not refundable. The Company is not responsible for allocating costs and responsibilities among multiple Applicants.

PacifiCorp and Columbia REA facilities are located along both sides of JB George. A county road widening job on JB George required both PacifiCorp and Columbia REA to work on facilities at the same time. At various times, PacifiCorp crews, Columbia REA crews and county road contractor were working within the road right-of-way at the same time.

Attachment F

Columbia REA trenched in close proximity of PacifiCorp anchors at Dell and Bowman. PacifiCorp was required to be on site to ensure pole did not fall.

Attachment F

Example of Locate at Canberra: Locate performed by Columbia REA shows "No CREA". Locate performed by Locate Inc. shows that there are PacifiCorp facilities present.

Attachment F

Example of Locate at Cottonwood: Locate performed by Locate Inc. indicates "No PPL". However, there is a Columbia REA vault present.

Attachment F

Columbia REA's proposed underground line does not meet PacifiCorp's six foot minimum clearance for separation of facilities. Columbia REA's proposed primary underground line is staked to run between PacifiCorp's pole and guy wire.

Attachment F

CREA Conduits

Columbia REA bored conduit (six) between PacifiCorp's and another utility's facilities. In doing so, Columbia dug into PacifiCorp's buried conduit, requiring PacifiCorp to make repairs.

Attachment F

Pine Street Trenching

Columbia REA is trenching within 6 feet of PacifiCorp's facilities. Note the close proximity of the backhoe to PacifiCorp's distribution pole.

Attachment F

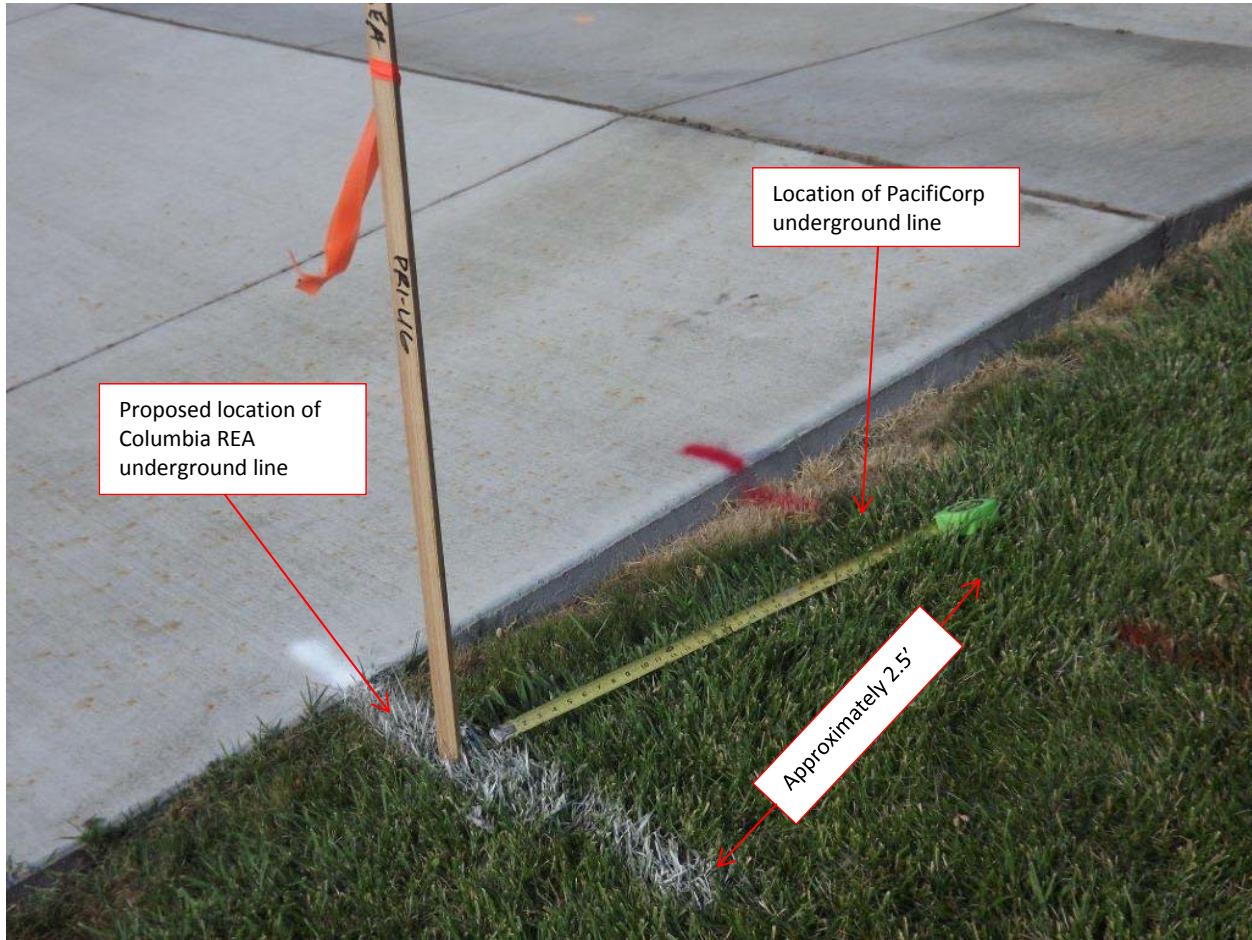

Pine Street (Looking West)

Columbia REA has staked a proposed location for their underground line and a junction box. Both are located within close proximity of PacifiCorp's facilities.

Attachment F

Columbia REA staked their primary line to be located approximately 2.5 feet from the locate mark of PacifiCorp's facilities. Columbia REA was reluctant to move their line to provide at least 6 feet of separation from PacifiCorp's facilities, stating that their proposed location met the minimum NESC requirements. After city and Labor and Industries were involved, Columbia REA moved the line and provided the 6 feet of separation.
