To: Chairman David Danner, and commissioners Ann Rendahl, and Jay Balasbas,

I am a rate payer of Puget Sound Energy. With my home and businesses, I pay a total of 5 PSE bills each month.

The Clean Energy Transformation Act of 2019 is leading the nation in what must be done to slow climate change and you have the ability to implement it as intended in rule-making. It is imperative that the rules address the social cost of climate change including fires, storms, flooding, land loss, and disease. The social cost of carbon must be included – including how to include it - in utility power plans.

I would like you to hold hearings on both the draft and final IRPs. This is especially important if the IRPs are less frequent than in years past. Along these lines, the public must be heard for both the IRP and the Clean Energy Implementation Plan throughout the process. Please clearly define public participation in our utilities' work plans.

Sincerely,

Angela London
