Do good by wasting less

We make it easy to sustainably reuse and recycle your stuff.

GET STARTED

Meet your fourth bin

You care about where your stuff goes. So do we.

Our used stuff still has value but it too often ends up in landfills or contaminating our recycling.

But you might not have time to figure out the best way to get rid of your stuff or time to drop it off.

<https://www.getridwell.com>

Starting at $10 per month, we pick up your stuff and make sure it is either locally reused or sustainably recycled. We commit to being the best way to get rid of your stuff.

We can make a difference

Every year, Americans throw away millions of tons of recycleable materials

BILLION
plastic bags

26
pounds of reusable clothes

999
MILLION pounds of styrofoam

How it works

Use your Ridwell bags around the house

We provide you with bags to store your batteries, light bulbs, plastic film, and threads. These are your core categories and can be picked up every two weeks.

Keep them in your laundry room, kitchen pantry, or wherever is best for you. That's delightful decluttering.

Opt-in for bi-weekly pickups of our 5 categories

There are five categories we take every pickup: the four core categories plus the rotating fifth category.

If any of your bags are full or you have something from the rotating category, opt-in to your pickup and put it in your Ridwell bin!

We pick it all up from your porch

The bin is weather-proof and we won't take anything by mistake!

On your Ridwell pickup day, we'll come by to empty your bin and leave your bags in your bin. Your stuff will go to sustainable recyclers or local reuse partners.

We bring it to a better place

Rest assured that your stuff is being given a new life and stays out of the landfill.

We thoroughly vet and only partner with local organizations that are committed to reuse and sustainability.

Want to make a difference for the planet and your trash bill?

Find out about plastic film and how it can be recycled through Ridwell!

Your weekly special

Every pickup, we help you delightfully declutter your home.

The rotating fifth category changes every pickup and is inspired by customer demand—like latex paint—or local need—like winter coats.

We find special partners for less common or particularly hard-to-recycle items that can go to a better place.

PUBLIC HEALTH - SEATTLE & KING COUNTY Downtown Office 401 - 5th Ave., Ste 1100 Seattle, WA 98104 206-263-9566	PURPOSE OF VISIT: Routine Inspection/Field Review of a Material recovery and recycling facilities establishment (PE=1026)
ESTABLISHMENT INFORMATION: 312 W REPUBLICAN ST, UNIT A, SEATTLE 98119 SEATTLE, WA 98119 Service Request #: SR1429680	INSPECTION INFORMATION: Date of Inspection: Tuesday, October 8, 2019 Time In: 9:50 am Time Out: 11:45 am Inspector: Rory O'Rourke Result: COMPLETE Action: Not Applicable

VIOLATIONS OBSERVED (if any)

OVERALL INSPECTION COMMENTS:

Met with Ryan Metzger, CEO; Aliya Marder, Product Manager; and Justin Gough, Operations and Logistics Manager.

Weather: Partly cloudy with showers, low 50s

Facility is located at 312 W. Republican Street, Suite A, Seattle, WA. Ridwell operates based on subscribers who want to pay to have specific categories of recyclables and household hazardous waste collected and recycled that are not available for curbside collection.

Observations:

Facility operations are conducted entirely indoors.

The facility is 3755 square feet and holds 10,000 lbs. of material maximum. There are 11-foot ceilings. There is a fire alarm, but no sprinkler or pull lever for fire. Ridwell has applied to operate as a recycling and material recovery facility – exempt, and a mobile collection system.

Public access is controlled by garage door on the south side of the facility that is closed when not receiving customers or pickups from recyclers. There is a door in the alleyway facing west that is dead-bolted. There is no parking lot for the facility.

Ryan Metzger indicated that he contacted David Graves, Senior Land Use Planner, Seattle Department of Construction and Inspections, who indicated that Ridwell's use of the facility was acceptable for the zoning designation. David Graves confirmed this via e-mail on November 6, 2019.

No signs were observed for the facility. Pickups from material recovery facilities and deliveries from employee vehicles are from 9 am to 5 pm daily.

All weather roads surround the facility as this is in an urban neighborhood (Queen Anne in Seattle).

Batteries, light bulbs, Styrofoam, textiles, latex paint, plastic film, kitchenware, and electronics have been accepted as waste streams through Ridwell. Waste categories are usually determined two to three months in advance of offering their services to customers. Ridwell employees deliver linen bags to subscribers to deposit their waste items. Linen bags are labeled by waste category, except Styrofoam, which is given an orange plastic bag. Bagged items are placed in white metal containers with a lid. Latex paint is usually set next to the Ridwell container. Any paints that are oil-based, with label missing, or not in the original container are not collected by Ridwell employees. Ridwell employees will leave a message saying how many items were collected and send information on household hazardous waste facilities.

Although Ridwell has offered collection of wine corks and latex paint, no items from these categories were observed at the time of inspection.

Materials are collected from subscribing households by removing linen bags from Ridwell-supplied metal containers. Linen bags are taken in employees' personal vehicles to be transported to the Ridwell facility.

Materials are screened out by hand. Hard plastics and garbage are removed and disposed of. Subscribers receive comments from Ridwell employees on how well they categorized their waste stream. Light bulbs are removed from linen bags and packed into cardboard boxes which are sealed with tape.

Less than one percent by weight of incidental and accident residual is accepted. There are about 2 bags of garbage per week for the facility, including the office. 9,300 lbs of waste accepted in September and there was 60 pounds of garbage generated. There are no continual piles maintained due to space. All piles cleared out completely due to the space available. Light bulbs and batteries are stored onsite a maximum of 2-4 weeks. Incoming and outgoing wastes are tracked on Google Docs. Buckets with material are weighed at the end of each week. Clothing is weighed on the way in and assumes 30 lbs. per bag.

Training for staff is described for handling light bulbs and batteries. There is a laminated sheet on wall about handling bulb breakage. Any corroded batteries are left in Ziplock bags. Staff are directed not to wear sandals, open-toed shoes, or heels. Employees are shadowed until they feel comfortable.

Waste Category Acceptance

Plastic film and Styrofoam (except food-soiled) – StyroRecycle who picks up material from facility
Batteries – All Battery
Light Bulbs – EcoLights
Threads – Goodwill
Paint- Green Sheen
Electronics- 1GreenPlanet

Actions Required

Ridwell must meet the terms and conditions for exemption as listed under the Washington Administrative Code (WAC) 173-350-210 for the following reasons:

1. Ridwell must coordinate with Kathryn McPherson at Washington Utilities and Trade Commission to ensure compliance with that agency's requirements. Compliance with this agency's standards is required for compliance with WAC 173-350-040, "Performance standards."
2. Ridwell should consult the Seattle Fire Department in order to determine if their facility has appropriate fire protection systems in place in order to be in compliance with WAC 173-350-040, "Performance standards." Public Health would like to receive a signed report of their findings. Ridwell needs to coordinate monthly inspections of fire extinguishers.
3. Before accepting new waste streams, Public Health requires 30 days' notice prior to implementation.

Failure to address these actions above by December 31, 2019, will limit your business to only non-solid waste items according to WAC 173-350-021 and may result in enforcement with civil penalties.

Recommendations

For all waste streams, develop best management practices to ensure effective rodent and insect control.

As a best management practice, have a dust pan, broom, and shovel in vehicles to facilitate cleanup of items if spills or breakage occurs.

Light bulbs should be placed in cardboard containers during collection to mitigate breakage and exposure to mercury vapors from CFL bulbs. Contact the King County Hazardous Waste Management Program at 206-296-4692 or visit <https://guiltfreekc.org/business/> to schedule a free business consultation for best management practices for handling CFL bulbs.

Update flyers and messaging through the Ridwell app that customers should only place clean pre-consumer Styrofoam takeout containers. Ridwell should screen for any Styrofoam takeout containers contaminated with food as employees pick up Styrofoam.

That is one of the biggest trucks we've ever seen filled with Styrofoam! Clayton and the rest of us are excited to help you recycle it so it doesn't end up in our landfills and instead is turned into things like picture frames and molding.

Website www.utc.wa.gov

Intrastate Common Carriers hauling general commodities (excluding household goods) must apply for and receive a permit from the commission to haul for-hire in Washington state. Household Goods carriers and Freight Brokers require a different application.

DEFINITIONS

- UNIFIED BUSINESS IDENTIFIER (UBI) NUMBER: Companies hauling for-hire within Washington must have a UBI number from the Department of Revenue’s Business License Services; (800) 451-7985. If you are a Corporation or Limited Liability Company you also must be registered with the Washington Secretary of State’s office; (360) 725-0377.
- LEGAL NAME: The legal name must be an individual, partnership, corporation, or limited liability company (LLC) and must be the SAME as registered under your UBI number, the name associated with your USDOT number, and your proof of insurance. If you are a corporation or limited liability company, the name must also match the name registered with the Secretary of State’s office.
- TRADE NAME(s): List trade name(s), if any, you intend to operate under other than your legal name. All trade name(s) must be registered under your UBI number.
- USDOT NUMBER - Intrastate: Any applicant operating a vehicle or a vehicle trailer combination with a GVWR of 16,001 pounds or more, or any applicant hauling hazardous materials requiring a placard, must obtain a USDOT number, as required by the Washington State Patrol (WSP). Apply for a USDOT number online at www.fmcsa.dot.gov/registration or call WSP at (360) 596-3812 or the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA) at (360) 753-9875 for assistance.
- HAZARDOUS MATERIALS: Complete the supplemental Hazardous Materials Safety Fitness Survey.

- WAC 480-70 – Rules Relating to Solid Waste Collection Companies
- “Your Guide to Achieving a Satisfactory Safety Rating”

You may not begin operations as a solid waste collection company until you are granted authority and a solid waste certificate is issued by the Utilities and Transportation Commission (Commission). Applications are subject to public notice and protest and may be set for a hearing.

You must file and maintain Public Liability and Property Damage Insurance (Form E) with the Commission covering each vehicle operating under your solid waste certificate in the state of Washington. The Commission must be shown as the certificate holder.

Per WAC 480-70-181, insurance or bond minimum limits are:

Vehicles less than 10,000 GVWR	$300,00 combined single limit of public liability and property damage insurance – Form E
Vehicles 10,000 GVWR and more	$750,000 combined single limit of public liability and property damage insurance – Form E
Transport quantities of biomedical waste not subject to federal regulation	$1,000,000 combined single limit of public liability and property damage insurance – Form E
Transport quantities of hazardous or biomedical waste that are subject to federal regulation	The federal minimum combined single limit coverage (see Title 49 CFR Part 387.301 & 303)

You may contact our Licensing Services staff for assistance at 360-664-1222. Our Compliance staff can be reached at 360-664-1244. The Commission has a policy of providing equal access to its services. If you need special accommodations, please call 360-664-1133 or to TTY, 800-416-5289.

Please submit application forms, appropriate attachments, and proof of insurance to the address below:

Have you ever applied for and been denied a certificate to transport solid waste?
 No Yes If yes, please explain: _____

Indicate the commodity to be hauled: Items for reuse and recyclable categories restricted to those not identified as available through curbside collection where we operate

Please describe the territory in which you wish to operate, include the name, address, and county for disposal of waste and the name, address and county where residential recycling materials will be delivered. (NOTE: Territory must be described using boundaries such as streets, avenues, roads, highways, townships, ranges, city limits, county boundaries or other geographic description:

Our service territory is based on areas where there is customer demand as measured by signups on our mailing list.
There are currently over 20,000 people on our mailing list with 95% of them residing in Washington state zip codes.
The largest number of people expressing interest reside in King, Snohomish, and Pierce counties, so that is where we wish to operate first. Coverage area, including those three counties are highlighted in the attached maps. We will begin with the specific zip codes within those counties that have expressed the most interest.

Please attach a map that meet the requirements of WAC 480-70-056 and clearly shows the territory described above.

State below the conditions that justify granting of this application. If you are applying for temporary certificate authority, be sure your statement addresses and support the question of “immediate and urgent need”.

Keeping material out of landfills and instead reusing or recycling it is important to residents of Washington state. Options exist for people to do this outside of traditional solid waste services. Customers are encouraged to take in-kind donations to non-profit organizations, or specialized recyclables to places like hardware stores or grocers. For those without the time or the means to drive these specialized categories themselves, we provide an alternative at an affordable price that our customers voluntary choose to pay.

Please tell us about your experience and knowledge of transportation or solid waste, including knowledge of motor carrier driver and equipment safety requirements:

Have diverted many thousands of pounds of materials from landfills that was not identified as recyclable by traditional solid waste companies. We have a perfect safety record while doing so and have worked collaboratively with the King County Department of Public Health to ensure safe and healthy operating procedures are being followed.

Have you or your company ever been cited for business-related violation of state laws or commission rule or any other federal or state agency?

No Yes If yes, please explain _____

Ridwell, Inc.
956 N 42nd St., Unit A
Seattle, WA 98103

Dear Mr. Metzger and Ms. Metzger:

The Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission (commission) believes you are engaged in services that require a solid waste certificate from the commission. The purpose of this letter is to provide technical assistance to you with respect to Washington's solid waste hauling requirements. Commission staff recently discovered that Ridwell, Inc. is advertising online and in social media for collection of recyclables.

Operating or advertising for collection of recyclables without the required solid waste certificate is illegal and subject to a penalty of $1,000 per violation.¹ Under the law, advertising of solid waste collection services is evidence of operating as a solid waste hauler. Solid waste collection includes residential and commercial garbage, residential recycling, yard waste, and drop box service.

Without authority from the commission to haul solid waste or recycling in Washington state, Ridwell, Inc., may not advertise or provide these services. Until and unless the commission grants a solid waste certificate, Ridwell, Inc., must immediately cease providing all forms of solid waste collection services.

If you wish to offer solid waste collection services, you must first apply for authority as a solid waste collection company. Be advised, however, that your application (enclosed) will be subject to a public protest period and you will have to demonstrate that the existing solid waste company is not providing the service you propose to offer. The commission will only grant new solid waste authority if the existing certificated company is determined to be unfit, unwilling, or unable to provide the service.

Respect. Professionalism. Integrity. Accountability.

To avoid enforcement action by the commission, by May 16, 2019, please either submit a complete application for a solid waste certificate, or explain in writing why you believe your business does not require authority from the commission. Please explain the nature of your company's operations in detail.

Please direct your written response, to Kathryn.McPherson@utc.wa.gov or by mail to P.O. Box 47250, Olympia, WA 98504. You may also reach Ms. McPherson at 360-664-1108.

Dear Ms. McPherson,

We received a letter dated May 3rd from Mike Turcott and wish to respond. First off, we really appreciate the offer to provide technical assistance as it relates to any possible coordination with your organization. We have a shared desire to provide residents of Washington with safe, reliable, and affordable service and look forward to working together to provide that.

Once we received the material your office provided, we reviewed it to determine how what we are providing overlaps with other organizations under your purview. We believe what we are doing is different for a few reasons:

1. We are not picking up garbage and are not transporting materials to landfills or transfer stations.
2. We are not picking up comingled recycling such as cardboard, aluminum, or glass, and do not bring materials to Material Recovery Facilities to be sorted and sent elsewhere.
3. Instead, we are providing something different by featuring categories for reuse or recycling that consumers are encouraged to take to partners on their own. We have found many people lack both the knowledge that these options exist and the time to bring things to them, so we have filled a need in our community by providing both at a low, monthly cost.
4. Many of the categories we pick up are actually things that are redistributed to community organizations for reuse rather than being underutilized in our customer's homes. To date, these have included eyeglasses, unused diapers, small kitchenware, food takeout utensils, books and several others.

For the reasons above, we have a very positive relationship with one of the largest haulers in the state, Recology, who we have met with several times. After meeting and learning more about how we operate, they view us as complementary to what they are doing rather than someone overlapping with services they already provide. According to Kevin Kelly, a General Manager based in Seattle: "I enjoyed meeting you both and look forward to remaining in touch and seeing how Ridwell continues to grow!"

Derek Ruckman, a Vice President and Group Manager of the Pacific Northwest at Recology agreed with that sentiment: "It was a great pleasure meeting you. I know I do not speak for just myself when I say we are really excited about your business model. Let's set a time in the summer to reconnect."

Early users of Ridwell are very happy with what we are providing, with many commenting how we are filling a need that had yet to be met prior to our arrival. Monique V. of Seattle said, "I have been waiting for something like this service for a long time – it feels like even with the city's recycling program there are still a lot of things that get put in the garbage that could be put to some good use!" Another customer, Eve (also of Seattle), described us as "A needed service in Seattle! Inexpensive and reliable, too."

We are committed to offering our service in a safe, reliable, and low-cost way and are pleased that we have demonstrated that to be the case. We have yet to miss a pickup, have had no safety issues, and customers like Eve are often commenting how affordable our service is for people across many different socioeconomic circumstances.

Please let us know what other information we can provide your organization. Written communication is often not the most efficient way of doing that, so I would be happy to visit Olympia and have conversations in person. Besides physical mail, I can also be reached by telephone at 206-920-8106 or by e-mail at ryan@ridwell.com.

Sincerely,

Ryan Metzger

Desc Mr. Metzger returned my call to discuss the compliance investigation on his company, Ridwell, Inc. I reviewed staff position that the company is in violation of providing residential recycling within the city of Seattle. I explained my response to him was in delay because I needed to verify with the city of Seattle that Ridwell, Inc. was not under city contract. Mr. Metzger argued his counsel stated that he was not required to have a certificate to transport, as the company was not under our jurisdiction. I explained that the city of Seattle has a contract with two companies, Recology and Waste Management, any other companies fall into UTC jurisdiction. I explained to Mr. Metzger that he must cease all recyclable services until such time that he applies for a certificate, and it is approved. I discussed that if he applies, the tariffed companies in that area have the right to protest. I encouraged Mr. Metzger to apply, as he states he has a working relationship with Recology. I provided Mr. Metzger with technical assistance on finding the application and licensing info on UTC.WA.GOV. Mr. Metzger stated he would review the application information. I did tell Mr. Metzger that the G-Certificate is separate from the requirements set by Ecology and Department of Health.

Meeting between regulatory agencies and Ridwell, July 24, 2019

Room 119, Chinook Building

Attendees: Kathryn McPherson, Utilities and Transportation Commission (UTC);

Ryan Metzger, Aliya Marder, Connor Bronston, Ridwell;

Dawn Marie Maurer, Washington Dept. of Ecology (Ecology);

Hans Van Dusen, Seattle Public Utilities (SPU);

Rory O'Rourke and Yolanda Pon, Public Health – Seattle & King County (PHSKC)

Residential customers throughout the area have bins

Source-separated by customers

Weather-proof bin with a close-tight lid

Ridwell employees collect draw-string canvas bags with source-separated recyclables within bin.

Canvas bags are collected in passenger vehicles.

CFL bulbs are also loose packed.

Warehouse located at 312 W. Republican St., Queen Anne neighborhood of Seattle

Textiles- Goodwill

Plastic film- StyroRecycle pick-up at Ridwell's warehouse

Batteries- All City Battery, 1 Green Planet pick-up at Ridwell's warehouse

CFL bulbs- transported in Ridwell's vehicles to Ecolights in S. Seattle

- Cargo vans in sealed boxes

Non-profit partners:

Mary's Place, NW Lions Eyeglass Center, other non-profits, Ridwell will bring to them.

Something Sarvy Wildlife bedding, linens and towels for abandoned young wildlife.

Bras for another non-profit.

Only if common carrier permit required, other clothing and items reused as-is is not a solid waste

CFL bulbs, batteries, plastic film, Styrofoam - regulated solid waste

Common carrier- any person who undertakes or transports property for compensation regular or irregular routes; personal vehicle qualifies by definition, puts you under motor vehicle carrier requirements. Medical cert., commercial insurance for company

Rory O'Rourke
July 30, 2019

Solid Waste Handling Facility permit under Material Recovery Facility or Recycling Center for warehouse needs permit or may qualify for permit exemption. Need to check with Seattle Department of Construction and Inspection (SDCI) to determine if the use where the warehouse is located is allowed under the Seattle building code.

Ridwell currently is only operating in city of Seattle, but may expand into other areas.

A couple streams that are household hazardous waste have more stringent regulation due to increased health and environmental hazards.

Exemption from dangerous waste regulations for materials generated in household.

List of action items:

1. SPU – check with Hans VanDusen to see if City of Seattle will take jurisdiction of securing contracted area. If not, then see action item, #2.

2. UTC- Common carrier application required due to residential collection; safety regulations every 4 years

If Seattle chooses not to take jurisdiction, then Ridwell will need to apply for Solid Waste Certificate with UTC, any company regulated in area has right to protest

Establish a tariff if you expand outside city of Seattle, go before Commissioners

Need to go to Ecology if hauling for commercial businesses

If expanding residential service to Kent, Kirkland, or Bellevue, then King County request for G certificate

3. Ecology - Dawn Marie to check-in about extent of household hazardous waste exemption with Hazardous Waste program at Ecology.

4. PHSKC – permit or permit exemption for material recovery facility/ recycling center

PHSKC vehicle permit: $500 base fee, $30/vehicle/year

<https://www.kingcounty.gov/depts/health/environmental-health/toxins-air-quality/~media/depts/health/environmental-health/documents/toxins/solid-waste-permit-application.ashx>

If Ecology determines the waste being handled is not hazardous waste, then it would be considered moderate risk waste and can apply for Notice of Intent form if customers are only Small Quantity Generators and Household Hazardous Waste:

<https://fortress.wa.gov/ecy/publications/SummaryPages/ECY070493.html>

1 form to Ecology, 1 form to PHSKC

Initial Application Fee: $739.20, 4 hours of review included, $184.80/hour thereafter

Wasting less, made easy.

Ridwell is finally coming to Kirkland!

Kirkland has done an amazing job wasting less. We did two free pickups in your neighborhood and you guys saved over 180 pounds of threads and 2 car loads of plastic film!

We can't wait to bring the full Ridwell experience to you:

- Pickups every two weeks of plastic film, threads, batteries, and light bulbs
- A featured special category every pickup like Kitchenware, Halloween Candy, or electronics

- Additional add-on categories like Styrofoam and latex paint

"I am ridiculously excited about your services! Ridwell makes all my good intentions to reduce my carbon footprint streamlined and easy. I am just so grateful that you have started this service period and everyone should be a part of it."

-Laurnyn, Kirkland

Our first pickup will be on October 8th!

Sign up by October 4th to get in on the fun.

Subject: Ridwell Notice of Intent Review and Facility Inspection

Hi Ryan,

Hope you are doing well. I have had the opportunity to review your Notice of Intent to Operate application and have some comments for revising some sections. I have included these bulleted items below. In addition, as part of our standard review, we would like to set up a time to come inspect your facility. I will be coming along with my colleague, Jennifer Jessen, who is our exempt facility lead.

- On your Notice of Intent to Operate Part 2, Type of Exemption, please check the "Recycling or material recovery of source-separated recyclable materials WAC 173-350-210 Table 210-A(3)" not the one currently checked that has brick, cured concrete, or asphaltic materials.
- Please provide documentation from the Seattle Department of Construction and Inspections detailing the zoning code and whether a recycling or material recovery facility is an acceptable use at your facility location.
- As of September 24, 2019, your website shows that Ridwell has started collecting additional waste streams such as latex paint, electronics, car seats, and wine corks. Your application will need to be updated throughout to reflect these changes. For future reference, we require 30 days' notice for adding new waste streams, otherwise you may be subject for solid waste handling permitting requirements.
- Collecting used wine corks can attract rodents and insects. We will need to describe in more detail how you plan to control vectors so they are not attracted to this waste stream.
- MRW mobile system response #3 only indicates that you plan to pick up from neighborhoods throughout Seattle, however, it has come to our attention you have started collecting in Kirkland as well. This should be updated to include the areas that you plan to service.
- In relation to the previous bullet, you will need to apply for a contract for Kirkland through City of Kirkland or a G-certificate for King County through Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission if Kirkland decides not to pursue the contract. This will be needed to comply with WAC 173-350-040, "Performance standards." Please contact Kathryn McPherson (cced here) for additional details. Hans VanDusen (also cced here) will be determining the City of Seattle component.
- The MRW mobile system responses need to be updated throughout to include description of handling electronics/ e-waste. Please find this as a resource for additional guidance on handling e-waste: <https://ecology.wa.gov/Regulations-Permits/Guidance-technical-assistance/Dangerous-waste-guidance/Common-dangerous-waste/Electronic-waste>
- MRW mobile system #7 should provide more detail of procedures on how you will contain a spill in one of your vehicles and at the facility.

Please feel free to reach out to me if you have any questions about these items. We look forward to hearing from you on times to set up an appointment to visit your facility. Thanks!

Subject: RE: Ridwell, Inc. - Residential Recycling Compliance Inquiry

Kathyrn,

Ridwell has not contacted the City of Kirkland as far as I know. Our hauling contract is specific in providing Waste Management with the exclusive right to collect garbage from residential and commercial customers and recycling from residential customers. As you probably know, commercial recycling is free market so a business could elect to have recycling services provided by another vendor. However, it appears that Ridwell's business model is specific to batteries, light bulbs, plastic film, and textiles. That being the case, Kirkland would not have any issues with them operating in our City collecting the those specific items that Waste Management does not have the exclusive right to collect.

Subject: Ridwell, Inc. - Residential Recycling Compliance Inquiry

Good day, Mr. MacGillivray.

I have been working on compliance with Ridwell, Inc. They are a residential recycling business, start-up model. The company was working exclusively within the city of Seattle. They offer pick up of recyclable good, and other reusable/re-dispersible items for home pick up at a nominal reoccurring charge. Please see their website at <https://www.ridwell.com/> As of October, 2019, Ridwell plans to collect recyclables from Kirkland.

A history of activities:

I learned of Ridwell from a referral by Department of Ecology. The commission sent the company a technical assistance letter May, 2019. A few months ago, Ridwell met with myself from the Utilities and Transportation Commission, Dawn Marie Maurer from Ecology, Rory O'Rourke and Yolonda Pon with King County Public Health, Hans VanDusen Contract Manager for City of Seattle Solid Waste. At that time, the city of Seattle was unsure if they believed Ridwell required a certificate to offer curbside assistance, as Recology has a contract with the city. Ecology and Public Health have been working with the company to provide the required facility permits.

Recently, communication with the city of Seattle has informed me that they have no plans to pursue jurisdiction with the company, as it does not interfere with Recology's service or its consumer base to provide residential recycling with their curbside garbage services. As this is the case, the commission would take jurisdiction to determine if the company is required to apply for a certificate of convenience to collect and transport residential recycling based on RCW 81.70-040. This is particularly more relevant now that the company service area includes outside of the city of Seattle into your contract city area of Kirkland.

To your knowledge, has Ridwell made any attempts to contact the city of Kirkland Solid Waste program for permit or contract requirements? If so, can you elaborate? I would like to know what steps they have taken to comply with local and state laws.

Thank you,

Recycling Collection Events

Twice a year (Spring and Fall), we hold a Special Recycling Collection Event for residents to bring in recyclable materials that are not collected curbside, such as tires, appliances, mattresses and toilets.

Why should I recycle?

- Recycle to save money. By putting recyclables in your blue cart, you generate less trash. With less trash, you can opt for a smaller (and cheaper) garbage service level.
- Recycling helps the environment because items are made into new things instead of sitting unused in the landfill for a lifetime.
- Our landfill is on pace to fill up in ten years, and once it's full we'll need to either ship our waste somewhere else or build a waste-to-energy facility that harvests energy from burning trash. These options will likely cost more than using our current landfill, which would make your rates increase.

Ridwell, Inc.
415 1st Avenue N, Unit 19737
Seattle, WA 98103

Dear Mr. Metzger and Ms. Marder,

I contacted the cities of Seattle and Kirkland solid waste programs regarding Ridwell, Inc.'s (Ridwell) business. Representatives from both cities informed me they do not intend to enter into a contract to transport solid waste or recyclable materials with Ridwell at this time. Companies not contracting with a city to provide solid waste services must comply with the requirements of Revised Code of Washington (RCW) 81.77 and obtain a solid waste certificate from the commission prior to operating as a solid waste company.

King County's Solid Waste Management plan lists recyclables Ridwell collects residentially. In the absence of a contract with a city, Ridwell cannot collect residential recyclables without a solid waste certificate from the commission.

In its October 7, 2019, letter to King County, Environmental Health Services Division, Ridwell states,

... Just as junk hauling services are exempt from G-certificates because their operations are different from curbside service, we believe ours may be too. We do not pick up categories covered by city services and customers opt-in when they would like a pickup that happens from their doorstep instead of the curb. We are in the process of setting up time to state this case to the UTC in a meeting coordinated by our State Senator ..."

RCW 81.77.010(9), and Washington Administrative Code (WAC) 480-70-041 provide definitions of "solid waste" and "residential recycling services."

RCW 81.77.040 authorizes the commission to adopt categories of solid wastes as follows: Garbage, refuse, recyclable materials, and demolition debris. Further, a certificate may be issued for one or more categories of solid waste.

Respect. Professionalism. Integrity. Accountability.

Batteries, lightbulbs, and Styrofoam are included in Seattle and Kirkland's solid waste plans. Each require drop-off at a transfer station for recycling. Ridwell's application with King County lists the company address 312 W Republican Street, Seattle, Washington 98119. The application also lists this location as a recycling and material recovery facility of source separated material.

Without a solid waste certificate from the commission to haul solid waste or recycling in Washington state, Ridwell, Inc., may not advertise or provide these services. Until and unless the commission grants a solid waste certificate, Ridwell, Inc., must immediately cease providing all forms of solid waste advertising and collection services.

If you wish to offer solid waste collection services, including residential recycling, you must first apply for authority as a solid waste collection company. Be advised, however, that your application (attached) is subject to a public protest period and your company will have to demonstrate that the existing solid waste company is not providing the service Ridwell proposes to offer. The commission will only grant new solid waste authority if the existing certificated company is determined to be unfit, unwilling, or unable to provide the service.

To avoid enforcement action by the commission, by November 4, 2019, please either submit a complete application for a solid waste certificate, or explain in writing why you believe your business does not require authority from the commission.

Please direct your written response, to Kathryn.McPherson@utc.wa.gov or by US Mail to PO Box 47250, Olympia, WA 98504. You may also reach Ms. McPherson at (360) 664-1108.

Dear Ms. McPherson and Mr. Perkinson,

I am writing to let you know that a written response to your most recent inquiry is on its way via USPS and should arrive tomorrow. We look forward to hearing your thoughts once you receive it as well as finding a time for an in-person meeting related to a separate email thread that has been circulating after we were connected several weeks ago to Jon Noski.

Sincerely,

Ryan Metzger

Dear Ms. McPherson,

We are responding to letters dated October 18th and 22nd which we received from Mathew Perkinson. We are also in the process of scheduling time to meet with Mr. Perkinson along with Jon Noski and Jason Lewis of the UTC after a connection was made by Senator Reuven Carlyle's office. We look forward to that meeting as another opportunity to cooperate with your organization – just as we have done by previously scheduling and completing an inspection of our facility by the King County Department of Public Health. We hope to discuss how we are different from a solid waste collection company and why we believe our business does not require authority from the commission.

Why is Ridwell different than traditional g-certificate holders?

Since we first began having conversations with the commission, we have been looking into the companies that hold G-certificates. Unlike those solid waste haulers, our service:

- Does not take anything to MRFs, transfer stations, or landfills
- Is paid for voluntarily by a subset of a city's residents
- Does not feature pickup from curbside locations or dumpsters
- Utilizes passenger vehicles for transportation
- Features a pickup when a customer requests one rather than on a regularly scheduled cadence
- Does not pick up categories identified as recyclable through city-contracted haulers where we operate
- Sends most of its categories to be reused by local non-profit partners

The closest comparison to what we do is the sanctioned drop-off locations for categories that exist beyond city and county-provided services. Rather than consumers driving their items to Goodwill, Recology stores, etc., we save them that trip and take their things on their behalf to processors and non-profit donation partners.

Many of our customers mention how our service saves them trips they would otherwise take on their own:

“Ridwell accomplishes in a single pick-up what I endeavored to do in multiple around-town trips. Keeping more recyclable and reusable stuffs out of the landfill is important to me; doing it efficiently and environmentally consciously is of greater urgency to me.” – Erin, Seattle

Through Ridwell taking these trips instead of individual customers, we are reducing miles traveled, avoiding wear and tear on our roads and highways, and lessening the carbon footprint of Washington state.

Some residents of Washington state face mobility challenges and are not able to take these trips on their own. By telling customers with disabilities that their only option is to drive materials like plastic bags to grocery stores if they wish to recycle them, this may be a violation of the Americans with Disabilities Act, Title II that prevents discrimination in state and local government services. One customer with mobility issues was grateful that Ridwell exists since we remove barriers they face to access additional recycling and reuse services that are more readily available to others in Washington State:

“I have already recommended Ridwell to friends and neighbors; it solves recycling problems for people who care about this topic but (like me) have mobility issues that Ridwell solves by removing the barriers of seeking out the specialized drop off locations.” – Susan, Seattle

How our categories differ from solid waste haulers

We would like to share more about the categories that we collect since it provides important information on how we differ from solid waste haulers. On a UTC-provided ‘Collecting and Transporting Garbage and Recycling’ flyer (that we have provided in Appendix I), there is a definition for ‘what is garbage’ that states it includes ‘source separated recyclable material collected from residents.’ Next, that term is defined as ‘waste separated for reuse that is identified as recyclable by local city or county authorities.’

Since over 90% of our customers are in Seattle, we will look to the Seattle Public Utilities ‘Where does it go’ flyer (that I have included in Appendix II) to determine what is and is not identified as recyclable. In that file, you will see (hard) plastics, paper, cardboard, glass bottles & jars and metal identified as recyclable. Ridwell does not and will not be collecting any of those categories. In Seattle, those categories are picked up from residents by Waste Management and Recology and it is important to know that both are aware of Ridwell and have told us they are glad we exist since we are not overlapping with what they do. Therefore, our service does not compete with existing certified haulers and we are not collecting anything categorized as solid waste according to the definition on UTC-provided material.

Our place relative to city services is another aspect that is often mentioned by our customers:

“Love that Ridwell “fills the gap” that City recycling services creates. Especially like the plastic film collection.” – Nancy, Seattle

To further illustrate how we differ from solid waste haulers, we have prepared the following table of our categories that have been featured in 2019 and list whether each is found in the City of Seattle ‘where does it go’ flyer under the recycling category. We have also listed whether our categories are eventually recycled or reused, and you will see that a majority are taken to be reused by non-profit partners. We believe that this focus on reuse and our recycling of materials considered non-recyclable by cities makes us most similar to services like NW Center or Goodwill pick up some of the categories we do and are not classified as solid waste collection companies.

A history of cooperation

As you may know, we have been cooperating with the Seattle and King County Department of Public Health where we are working towards a permit exemption for our facility and our operating procedures. An inspection was held at our facility on Tuesday, October 8th where Rory O'Rourke of that department was able to see how we operated and how different our setup is from a MRF or transfer station. This is one example of many where we have been a responsive partner to government agencies. You will see a timeline of our interactions in Appendix III at the conclusion of this letter.

We know that the Utilities and Transportation Commission has a mission to make sure investor-owned utility and transportation services are safe, available, reliable and fairly-priced. We applaud that mission and our proud of our own record that shows no safety incidents, no missed pickups, and a price that many customers have stated is a great value:

"I really appreciate having an easy and affordable way to do the right thing!" – Lisa, Seattle

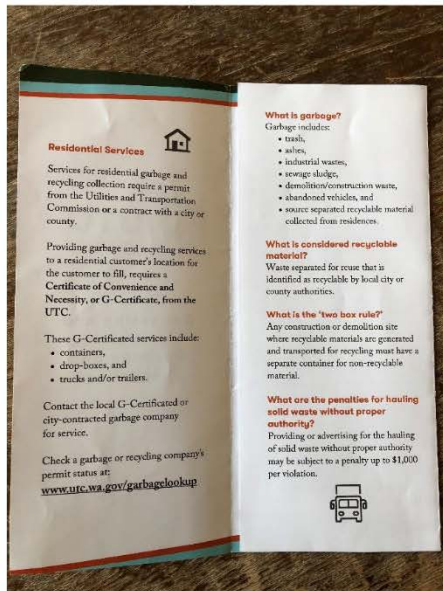

Through our research, we know that some categories of businesses, like junk haulers, could be considered solid waste collection companies but have been determined to be a different category. We believe Ridwell to be even further from a solid waste company and look forward to having open-minded and collaborative discussions with your organization.

Sincerely,

Ryan Metzger

RE: Response to Ridwell, Inc. Regarding Commission Solid Waste Regulations

Dear Mr. Metzger and Ms. Marder:

On Oct. 22, 2019, Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission (UTC or Commission) Staff (Staff) requested that Ridwell, Inc. (Ridwell) respond to a letter regarding its residential recycling program. On Nov. 4, 2019, Ridwell responded via letter informing Staff that the Commission should not consider Ridwell a residential recycling company because Ridwell's business model differs from traditional solid waste certificate holders.

In its letter Ridwell states it “. . . [d]oes not pick up categories identified as recyclable through city-contracted haulers where we operate. . .” However, Staff believes Ridwell is in fact collecting and offering to collect residential recyclable materials listed in the local comprehensive solid waste plans of the cities of Seattle and Kirkland. The City of Seattle offers specialty pickups of batteries, CFL lightbulbs, and Styrofoam. Kirkland lists these products as recyclable at certain drop-off locations.

Ridwell's letter states that it is not a residential recycling company because the company does not take anything to “. . . MRFs, transfer stations, or landfills . . .” Ridwell has a location for storage of recyclables to be distributed to other locations and is working with King County's Solid Waste Division for permit approval.

On Oct. 9, 2018, Ridwell established a solid waste facility. Ridwell's application for Notice of Intent to Operate under Terms and Conditions for Solid Waste Permit Exemption dated Oct. 7, 2019, designates the location as a recycling facility. In its application, Ridwell selected recycling or material recovery of source-separated recyclable material and moderate risk waste.

Respect. Professionalism. Integrity. Accountability.

Ridwell's letter mentions that the company utilizes passenger vehicles for transportation of the recyclable materials. The type of vehicle used to transport the waste or recyclable material has no bearing on the applicability of the Commission's solid waste certificate requirements.¹

Ridwell's website offers "... pickups every two weeks of plastic film, threads, batteries, and light bulbs. . ." from residences. Washington Administrative Code (WAC) 480-70-041 defines residential recycling service as collection of those solid wastes that are separated for recycling or reuse, such as paper, plastic, metals, and glass, that are identified as recyclable materials pursuant to a local comprehensive solid waste plan. Commission rules do not specify recyclables must be collected curbside, nor do Seattle or Kirkland's local comprehensive solid waste plans.

On Dec. 9, 2019, staff met with Ridwell at the Commission. Staff appreciates Ridwell's willingness to meet and further explain its business model and its on-going effort to gain regulatory clarity. During the meeting staff explained that it believes Ridwell is offering residential recycling services and outlined options for Ridwell to take into consideration going forward to avoid enforcement.

Staff believes Ridwell is engaging in services that require a solid waste certificate from the Commission. Ridwell must have a certificate of public convenience and necessity from the Commission before operating as a solid waste collection company in the state of Washington.² Without authority from the Commission to haul solid waste or recycling in Washington state, Ridwell may not advertise or provide these services. Until and unless the Commission grants a solid waste certificate, Ridwell must immediately cease advertising and providing all forms of solid waste collection services.

If Ridwell wishes to offer solid waste collection services, including residential recycling, it must first apply to the Commission for authority as a solid waste collection company. Ridwell must demonstrate that the existing solid waste company does not provide the service Ridwell proposes to offer. Each solid waste application is subject to public protest. The Commission only grants new solid waste authority if the existing certificated company is determined to be unfit, unwilling, or unable to provide the service.

The Commission may grant an exemption from, or modify the application of, any of its rules in individual circumstances if the exemption or modification is consistent with the public interest, the purposes underlying regulation, and applicable statutes.³ The process to request an exemption is outlined in WAC 480-07-110(2). Ridwell may request for clarification the interpretation of any rule in WAC 480-70.⁴ Ridwell may also petition the Commission for a declaratory order.⁵

¹ RCW 81.77.010(6) defines vehicle as "... every device capable of being moved upon a public highway and in, upon, or by which any solid waste is or may be transported or drawn upon a public highway . . ."

To avoid enforcement action by the Commission, by December 27, 2019, please submit a complete application for a solid waste certificate or cease all operations as a residential recycling company including advertising.
