RE: Commission household goods training requirement

Dear Joshua Manion,

The Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission issued your company provisional operating authority. Our records indicate no one from your company has attended the required commission sponsored household good carrier training class. This is a requirement to achieve permanent authority detailed in WAC 480-15-305.

The commission will not issue permanent authority if this requirement is not met. Further, failing to attend the required training may result in the commission cancelling the company's provisional operating authority.

The next available training is November 7, 2018, in Olympia. If you are unable to attend this session, the next available class will be February 20, 2019, in Olympia. Space is limited so it is advised that you reserve a spot in this class. It is filled on a first come, first served basis. For enrollment information contact Jason Hoxit, Consumer Protection Investigator, at (360) 664-1320 or email jason.hoxit@utc.wa.gov.

Please respond by November 2, 2018 with your intention on satisfying this training requirement.

Sincerely,
