To Mr. Mark Johnson,

I, Artyom Yakimovich, of Yakima Brothers, LLC, docket TV-190498, received a letter that the full $5,000 penalty was now due because I missed three payments.

I showed up for court, was not trying to hide, and paid a $100 payment at that time. Four more payments were set up on a payment plan. When I made my $100 payment, I thought the remaining would be automatic payments. The lady who charged my credit card said I was all set, so I thought my payments would automatically be applied and I was done with this situation.

I now get a letter saying the entire amount is due. I'm trying to pay, and can pay the rest of the $400 right now. Can I pay the $400 instead of the full amount? I am new to this country and English is my second language. I was not trying to hide or not pay. I'm at your building now trying to pay, but am told it is too late because the order already came out. I received two letters on the same day, one was a reminder of the payment plan and a second letter saying the full amount was due. Why was the full amount due just two days after a reminder.

Bridgit Feeser is writing my words for me as it's difficult for me to put them in writing.

I'm submitting this letter to ask for reconsideration of imposing the full penalty amount. If you approve this, I will immediately pay the $400.

Artyom Yakimovich
