Dear Ms. Harris,

I am writing to ask PSE to retire all remaining coal plants and to commit to 100% renewable energy. I am concerned about the coal plants' contribution to climate change and climate change's impact on Washington, the United States, and <sup>in 2015</sup> the world. When I moved back to Washington, after years living abroad, I arrived in the middle of the worst wildfires on record. I didn't understand, when I arrived at Sea-Tac, why the sky was orange and gray. The forest fires in Washington are a threat to asthma sufferers like me, a danger to firefighters who fight them, and an effect of climate change. Coal is a leading polluter and contributor to climate change, and I urge you to retire the Colstrip plants by 2025. Please replace them with renewable energy, like solar and wind, and help make Washington and the Puget Sound national leaders in the renewable energy transition.

Thank you for your support,
