Narrative,

M&L Construction was directional boring and digging under a valid dig ticket. We completed a pilot bore and then pulled back a 2" line. After the bore process another crew started digging with an excavator to set a hand hole with no indications of a gas line in the area, no visible meters etc. As they were digging the laborer saw that a tracer wire had been broke and stopped excavation so we could proceed with caution. We then found an unmarked ADYL gas line inches away from the tracer wire.

Below are the pictures from the scene of the violation.

no gas marks
