RE: Updated Washington Meter Reading and Billing Practices Tariff, Schedule 80, Tariff
WN U-28, Electric Service – Substitute Filing

Dear Mr. King:

Attached for filing with the Commission is the Company's proposed tariff revision:

Substitute First Revision Sheet 80                      Canceling                      Original Sheet 80

On October 10, 2017, Avista filed to updates its Meter Reading and Billing Practices Tariff, Schedule 80. Based on feedback and consultation with Commission Staff, enclosed is a substitute tariff page to incorporate certain changes and/or clarifications as recommended by Commission Staff.

Specifically, the Company made the following changes:

Section 3: Clarified that billing periods of six days or less will be treated as an addition to the next or previous normal billing period, whichever is applicable. This language replicates what is currently included the Company's natural gas tariff schedule 180. Also, added additional language to make it clear how billing periods for seven days or more will be treated.

COMMISSION

Section 4, added additional language to make it clear that the Company's standard practice is to obtain an actual meter reading during the normal billing period of 27 to 35 days per Section 1. Also, added new language to clarify under what circumstances the Company may attempt to obtain a meter reading beyond the 35 day normal billing period and that the maximum monthly billing period for which a customer may be billed is 45 days in those circumstances.

The Company requests that the tariff revisions described herein become effective on November 13, 2017. If you have any questions regarding this filing, please contact Shawn Bonfield at 509-495-2782 or shawn.bonfield@avistacorp.com.
