Utilities Transportations and Commissions,

After 16 years of operation, I have decided to retire at the age of 84. I've searched for someone to potentially take over my business for the past decade. Unable to continue, I believe Mr. Robinson is the best fit to continue this business. He has worked in every area and department in my company in the past three years. We have met for countless meetings and lunches discussing aspects of employee development, customer service, management and finances; these conversations as well as the results from his time as my companies General Manager leads me to believe that Mr. Robinson will be successful in owning and operating Dan the Moving Man.

In the asset purchase agreement, Mr. Robinson and I have agreed for him to allow myself and my bookkeeper full access to the shop and the books in order to over see certain aspects of the company and it's management. Including employee compensation and satisfaction, as well as revenue and customer satisfaction. From what I have observed, the operations and procedures of the company have not changed from the time that Mr. Robinson was operating as a General Manager to now as an owner.

Genuinely,

Daniel Loibl.

Utilities Transportations and Commissions,

In my time in the work force, I have gained six years of experience in the moving industry, as well as an additional four years of experience in abatement and removal, give me full confidence in maintaining and improving the quality of service that Dan the Moving Man/ Dan the Piano Man has been building for nearly two decades. Furthermore, my experience in direct sales in industries like insurance and security give me the skills that I need to continue to produce business and work for our employees. I started my first company at 19 years old, my second when I was 23 and my third now at 27. I've always wanted to be self-employed and believe that this is one of the best opportunities that I'll ever be faced with.

I have regular meetings with Dan, where we discuss maintenance of trucks and employee retention. He is still my mentor; a part of the business and I will use his wisdom for as long as I may.

Best,

Rexford A Robinson.
