And then finally I'd say we have scheduled inspections for the stretch Duck vehicles on November 16th, 17th and 18th. So that's where we are to date. I can talk about what's up next for us coming up here in the next few weeks. We're going to complete our records review and analysis of all that data. And I will say that this is a very large amount of information that we're kind of sifting through. It's a lot of detailed information, so it's detailed work to really make sure we can look at of these carefully and correctly. So we'll conduct that review. We'll finish our review and analysis, we'll inspect the truck Ducks, and then we'll start preparing our findings.
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	My name is Dave Pratt. I'm the Assistant Director for Transportation Safety here at the Commission. And I'm here today just to give you a status report, as you mentioned earlier, on Docket TE-151906. I'd just like to start with a couple points, first to say on September 25 of this year, we opened up a compliance investigation into the safety and operating practices of Ride the Ducks of Seattle. And we are following the national and state safety standards. I just want to make that clear, that we've adopted these under our code to follow those standards. I also want to make a reminder that the UTC is only investigating the Company's safety and operating practices. The National Transportation Safety Board, or NTSB, is responsible for conducting the accident investigation that occurred on 9/24. I want to make sure that that's a separate piece. And the primary focus of our investigation is to make ensure that the Company has the appropriate safety management controls in place and that they're in compliance with all the recordkeeping requirements for drivers and	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	findings of their review and also to discuss some additional compliance issues that we had questions about. We have gathered all the records that we believe we need for this review. We've conducted interviews of staff of Ride the Ducks of Seattle. And we're well into our review and analysis of that information. We've also completed our actual physical inspections of the ten truck Duck vehicles. And then finally I'd say we have scheduled inspections for the stretch Duck vehicles on November 16th, 17th and 18th. So that's where we are to date. I can talk about what's up next for us coming up here in the next few weeks. We're going to complete our records review and analysis of all that data. PRATT: And I'm not familiar with their timing, whether it could be an annual inspection at the same time they're doing this one. I haven't had that discussion with them. It's possible that could happen. COMMISSIONER JONES: Thanks. JUDGE KOPTA: Okay. Anything further? MS. BROWN: This is Sally Brown. I just would like Mr. Pratt to clarify what he means by "breaking the boots." MR. PRATT: Opening. JUDGE KOPTA: Okay. Company, do you have anything that you'd like to add at this point about the investigation? MS. BUCHANAN: Yes, your Honor. Thank you for the opportunity. The Staff has been remarkable, very professional, and I know they're working very, very hard. So we thank them for that and continue to cooperate with them. I suppose one of the messaging points I would	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	routes you were thinking of, if you've made those determinations, and tell me about the coordination with the City of Seattle. MS. BUCHANAN: The decision has been made to not include the Aurora Bridge in the routes. The new routes are being developed. I don't have the data on the new routes to share with you today, but coordinating efforts are being made and will certainly be approved by the City. Mr. Pratt may or may not have more information on that. I'm not sure. So with respect to the bridge, that decision has been made. The other decision that has been made, and perhaps is one of your follow-up questions, is they have now gone to two-manned Ducks. In other words, there will be a driver and a tour guide, so two folks operating one Duck. CHAIRMAN DANNER: Okay. And that would be for all the vehicles, whether it's a stretch Duck or a truck Duck? MS. BUCHANAN: Correct. CHAIRMAN DANNER: Okay. Yes, that was my follow-up question. So thank you. JUDGE KOPTA: Any other questions?
