Furthermore, Attachment C provides a breakdown of all its 2013 complaints regardless of whether they were complaints for a supported service or for other services not supported by high cost funding.

Page 6

(b) The planned investment and expenses related to Washington State which the ETC expects to use as the basis to request federal support from any category in the federal high-cost fund.

(2) The report must include a substantive plan of the investments and expenditures to be made with federal support and a substantive description of how those investments and expenditures will benefit customers.

Response: FCC Order 11-161, The ICC/USF Transformation Order comprehensively reformed the universal service and inter-carrier compensation systems to ensure that robust, affordable voice and broadband service, both fixed and mobile, are available to Americans throughout the nation. Since its release in the fall of 2011, it has been repeatedly amended, and the types of high-cost support, methodologies for requesting and accepting support and the models for defining future support have not been completely defined. As such, projections on how future high-cost support will be used would be simply speculation.

To the extent that CenturyLink does receive high-cost support for the period in question, it will be used to provide services at a level that meets the requirements of 47 U.S.C. § 254 addressing the delivery of high quality telecommunication services to customers in the service areas for which it receives said high-cost support. Additionally, and in keeping with the intent of FCC 11-161, high-cost support will be used to expand access to high-speed internet services throughout the state.

Sincerely,

Mark S. Reynolds
