About

Cascade Recycling is a small but growing company with over a decade of experience providing great service to customers around the Puget Sound. We haul residential and commercial construction debris to our subsidiary company, Alpine Recycling, where the materials are sorted by type - wood, metal, cardboard, and beyond - and then sold to third party distributors that can reuse them.

Established in 2004

Cascade was founded in 2004 as a small, drop box-based recycling service provider. In the intervening years, Cascade has expanded the reach of its operations to include the Mosquito Fleet Division and the creation of its subsidiary company, Alpine Recycling Inc. We have endeavored to keep ahead of the curve - from ensuring that Alpine Recycling became a King County Designated Facility to diversifying our equipment to better serve the unique timing and space constraints of our customers.

Today, Cascade and Alpine together employ over 20 individuals, and it is their commitment to our company's mission that keeps driving the dynamism and growth of our company.

Our Mission

Cascade Recycling's mission is twofold: First and foremost, we aim to provide excellent service to our customers in their homebuilding and home renovation endeavors. And second, we seek to reduce the amount of recyclable construction debris going to landfills. These goals are especially meaningful to us as the greater Puget Sound region continues to grow at an exciting pace. We view our customers as partners in this mission as we jointly contribute to keeping our beautiful and booming Puget Sound region pristine - for our use and for future generations!
